Wells indicted, leaves position

By JULIE MURPHY
and STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporters

"If he did what he's accused of doing, he did it with the best interest of the Village (of Antioch) in mind," said Antioch trustee Dorothy Larson of the 15-count indictment against former Antioch administrator Tim Wells.

The indictment made by a Lake County grand jury on Feb. 20 charges Wells, a 50-year-old Antioch resident, with three counts of official misconduct, eight counts of forgery, one count of obstructing justice, one count of perjury, unlawful stringing of bids and unlawful interference with contract submission and award by a public official. No criminal charges have been filed against the Village of Antioch.

George Strickland, chief of the criminal division of the Lake County State's Attorney office said four or five of the counts pertain to the initial diversion of $1.5 million in funds, and the others attempt to cover up those acts. The money, bequeathed to the village by Dolly Spiering for Antioch seniors, was to have been put in a special fund, but was instead used to pay village bills.

Wells is not accused of using any of the money for personal gain. Arraignment has been scheduled for March 6 before Judge Raymond McKoski.

If convicted, Wells could be sentenced to as little as probation or as much as 10 years in prison.

Wells, who juggled the jobs of Antioch village administrator and administrator consultant for the Village of Fox Lake between May and August of 2001, came to a mutual agreement with Fox Lake officials to "sever the relationship" on Feb. 21.

"Mr. Wells has been providing an outstanding service to the Village of Fox Lake. He has brought a new level of professionalism to the municipality in the conduct of its business," said Fox Lake Mayor Nancy Koske.

The charges came after months of investigation following a routine audit, requested by current Antioch Mayor Taso Maravelas, revealed that the money bequeathed to Antioch seniors by Dolly Spiering had been diverted and spent. Maravelas declined to make a comment at this time about the indictment. "I would really rather make a comment later," he said.

However, during a November board meeting to announce the audit findings, Maravelas said, "All of the money is gone. There is only $500 in one account."

The money had been deposited into the general and enterprise funds. Though an ordinance was approved on June 19, 2000 to establish a special fund for the seniors, this was never done.

The failure to establish this account is one of the three counts of official misconduct charged against Wells. The other two are for spending the Spiering fund money on something other than senior interests and for hiring (making a stipend payment) to Antioch Senior Center director Paul Howard without the authority of the board of directors.

In a correspondence from Wells to village trustees in service during his tenure to explain his actions, Wells said of the Spiering money: "No one, including (former) Mayor (Marilyn) Shineflug, any of the previous board members, village staff, Paul Howard, senior advisory council members knew about how and where the funds of Dolly Spiering were being used or not being used." Wells said in that document that funds were spent on the completion of the police station and on the completion of the parks building. He also said he had planned to repay the money based on income projections he had made.

The eight counts of forgery against Wells stem from four documents that he first forged and then delivered. According to Strickland, the act of delivering a forged document is an act of forgery.

Damage control follows Wells' indictment

By JULIE MURPHY
and STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporters

Shock and disappointment are only some the emotions being felt after former Antioch village administrator Tim Wells was indicted on a number of charges stemming from the diversion of over $1 million dollars earmarked for Antioch seniors.

Misinformation circulated in village meetings and in area newspapers finds a number of entities defending themselves.

Antioch Public Library director Kathy LaBuda said, "Please correct the information that some of the Spiering money went to the library. We are in the middle of a fundraising effort for furniture for the library. This could greatly hurt our efforts."

When Antioch resident Dolly Spiering died she left money to the organizations she held dear: the Lakes Region Historical Society, PM&L Theatre, the Antioch Rescue Squad and to the village earmarked for seniors and the Antioch Senior Center.

Antioch Fire Dept. information officer Chris Lienhardt said, "The chief (Dennis Volling) wants to make it clear that none of the diverted money went to pay for the completion of the second fire station or for the ladder truck. The fire station was completed on time and under budget, and the ladder truck was a 50-50 venture."

A five-percent utility tax increase has been levied on natural gas, electricity and phone service in Antioch to cover the costs of repaying a bank loan to repay the Spiering fund for seniors. Though the tax will only be in place for about three years, and will be immediately repealed when the loan is repaid, many residents are unhappy about the increase.

When first discussed, Antioch resident Nancy Binder, pointing out the negative impact to seniors, said, "I think this is ill-advised. You've taken the likely three-percent social security increase four times over."

The Village of Fox Lake is now in the position of having to replace

Democrats also 'green'

Former Forest Preserve employer hopes to replace Martini on county board

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"I would like to see a true two-party system in Lake County," said democratic candidate Timothy Chichester who hopes to replace incumbent Judy Martini (R-Antioch) on the Lake County board in District 1.

Chichester is the third vice-chair of the Lake County Democratic Party and the Democratic Party Antioch Township chair.

"I worked for 14 years with the Cook County Forest Preserve Dist. until I hurt my back and had to take an inside job," he said. "Environmental concerns are extremely important to me."

Chichester said he moved to Antioch permanently four years ago after being a "weekender" with a summer home for a number of years. "I like the open spaces and all the recreation in Antioch," he said. "I think the Forest Preserve Dist. should acquire as much land as possible."

While Chichester said he opposes the Rte. 53 expansion, he doesn't see a way around it. "With the traffic in Lake County, I don't see how we can avoid this," he said. "But, I'm not sure this is a county board issue."

In terms of residential growth within the district, Chichester said he feels housing should be spread out and that affordable housing should be available in all communities. "There shouldn't just be pockets of affordable in a couple of areas," he said.

He added that he'd rather not see Wal-Mart come to Antioch. Chichester said, "I have no problem going to Round Lake Beach or to Gurnee."

As with republican candidate Kevin Schoudel, Chichester is sympathetic to the plight of the RV (recreational vehicle) park owners in the area. "I think we can co-exist with the RV parks," said Chichester. "They should be looked at on a case-by-case basis, and grandfathered in. I don't think it was necessary to change the rules on them."

He said the big change he would make if elected would be to have an "open door policy" and plan to meet with the constituency on a monthly basis. "I don't see this happening in Lake County now," he said. "I think it's important to keep in touch and see how people feel."

Chichester is a member of the Antioch Moose Lodge and the Millburn Congregational United Church of Christ.

Deercrest trial date pushed back

Three weeks added to one and one-half year trial

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A date for trial in a case that has been ongoing for one and one-half years has been pushed back another three weeks further lengthening the process. The new date for the concluding segment of the case over sewer easements filed by Otto Sprenger and the limited liability company (LLC) Deercrest against Lake County, the Village of Antioch and the Forest Preserve Dist. since it has closed on the purchase of the Glick property is June 24. Judge John Goshgarian is hearing the case.

Marc Neuman, a participant in Deercrest, LLC, said, "Several things have happened in the last couple of months. In the Neumann Homes case in front of Judge (Margaret) Mullen, a demand for easements is no longer part of that suit, so it wouldn't make sense to consolidate us (Deercrest and Neumann Homes lawsuits)."

He added that Deercrest and Sprenger have no legal interest in Neumann Homes, and its PUD (planned unit development)

'The Forest Preserves is pushing for the settlement to go through, but this has been going on for a long time and we have major damages with the court'

Marc Neuman

approval as Deercrest already has a PUD approval.

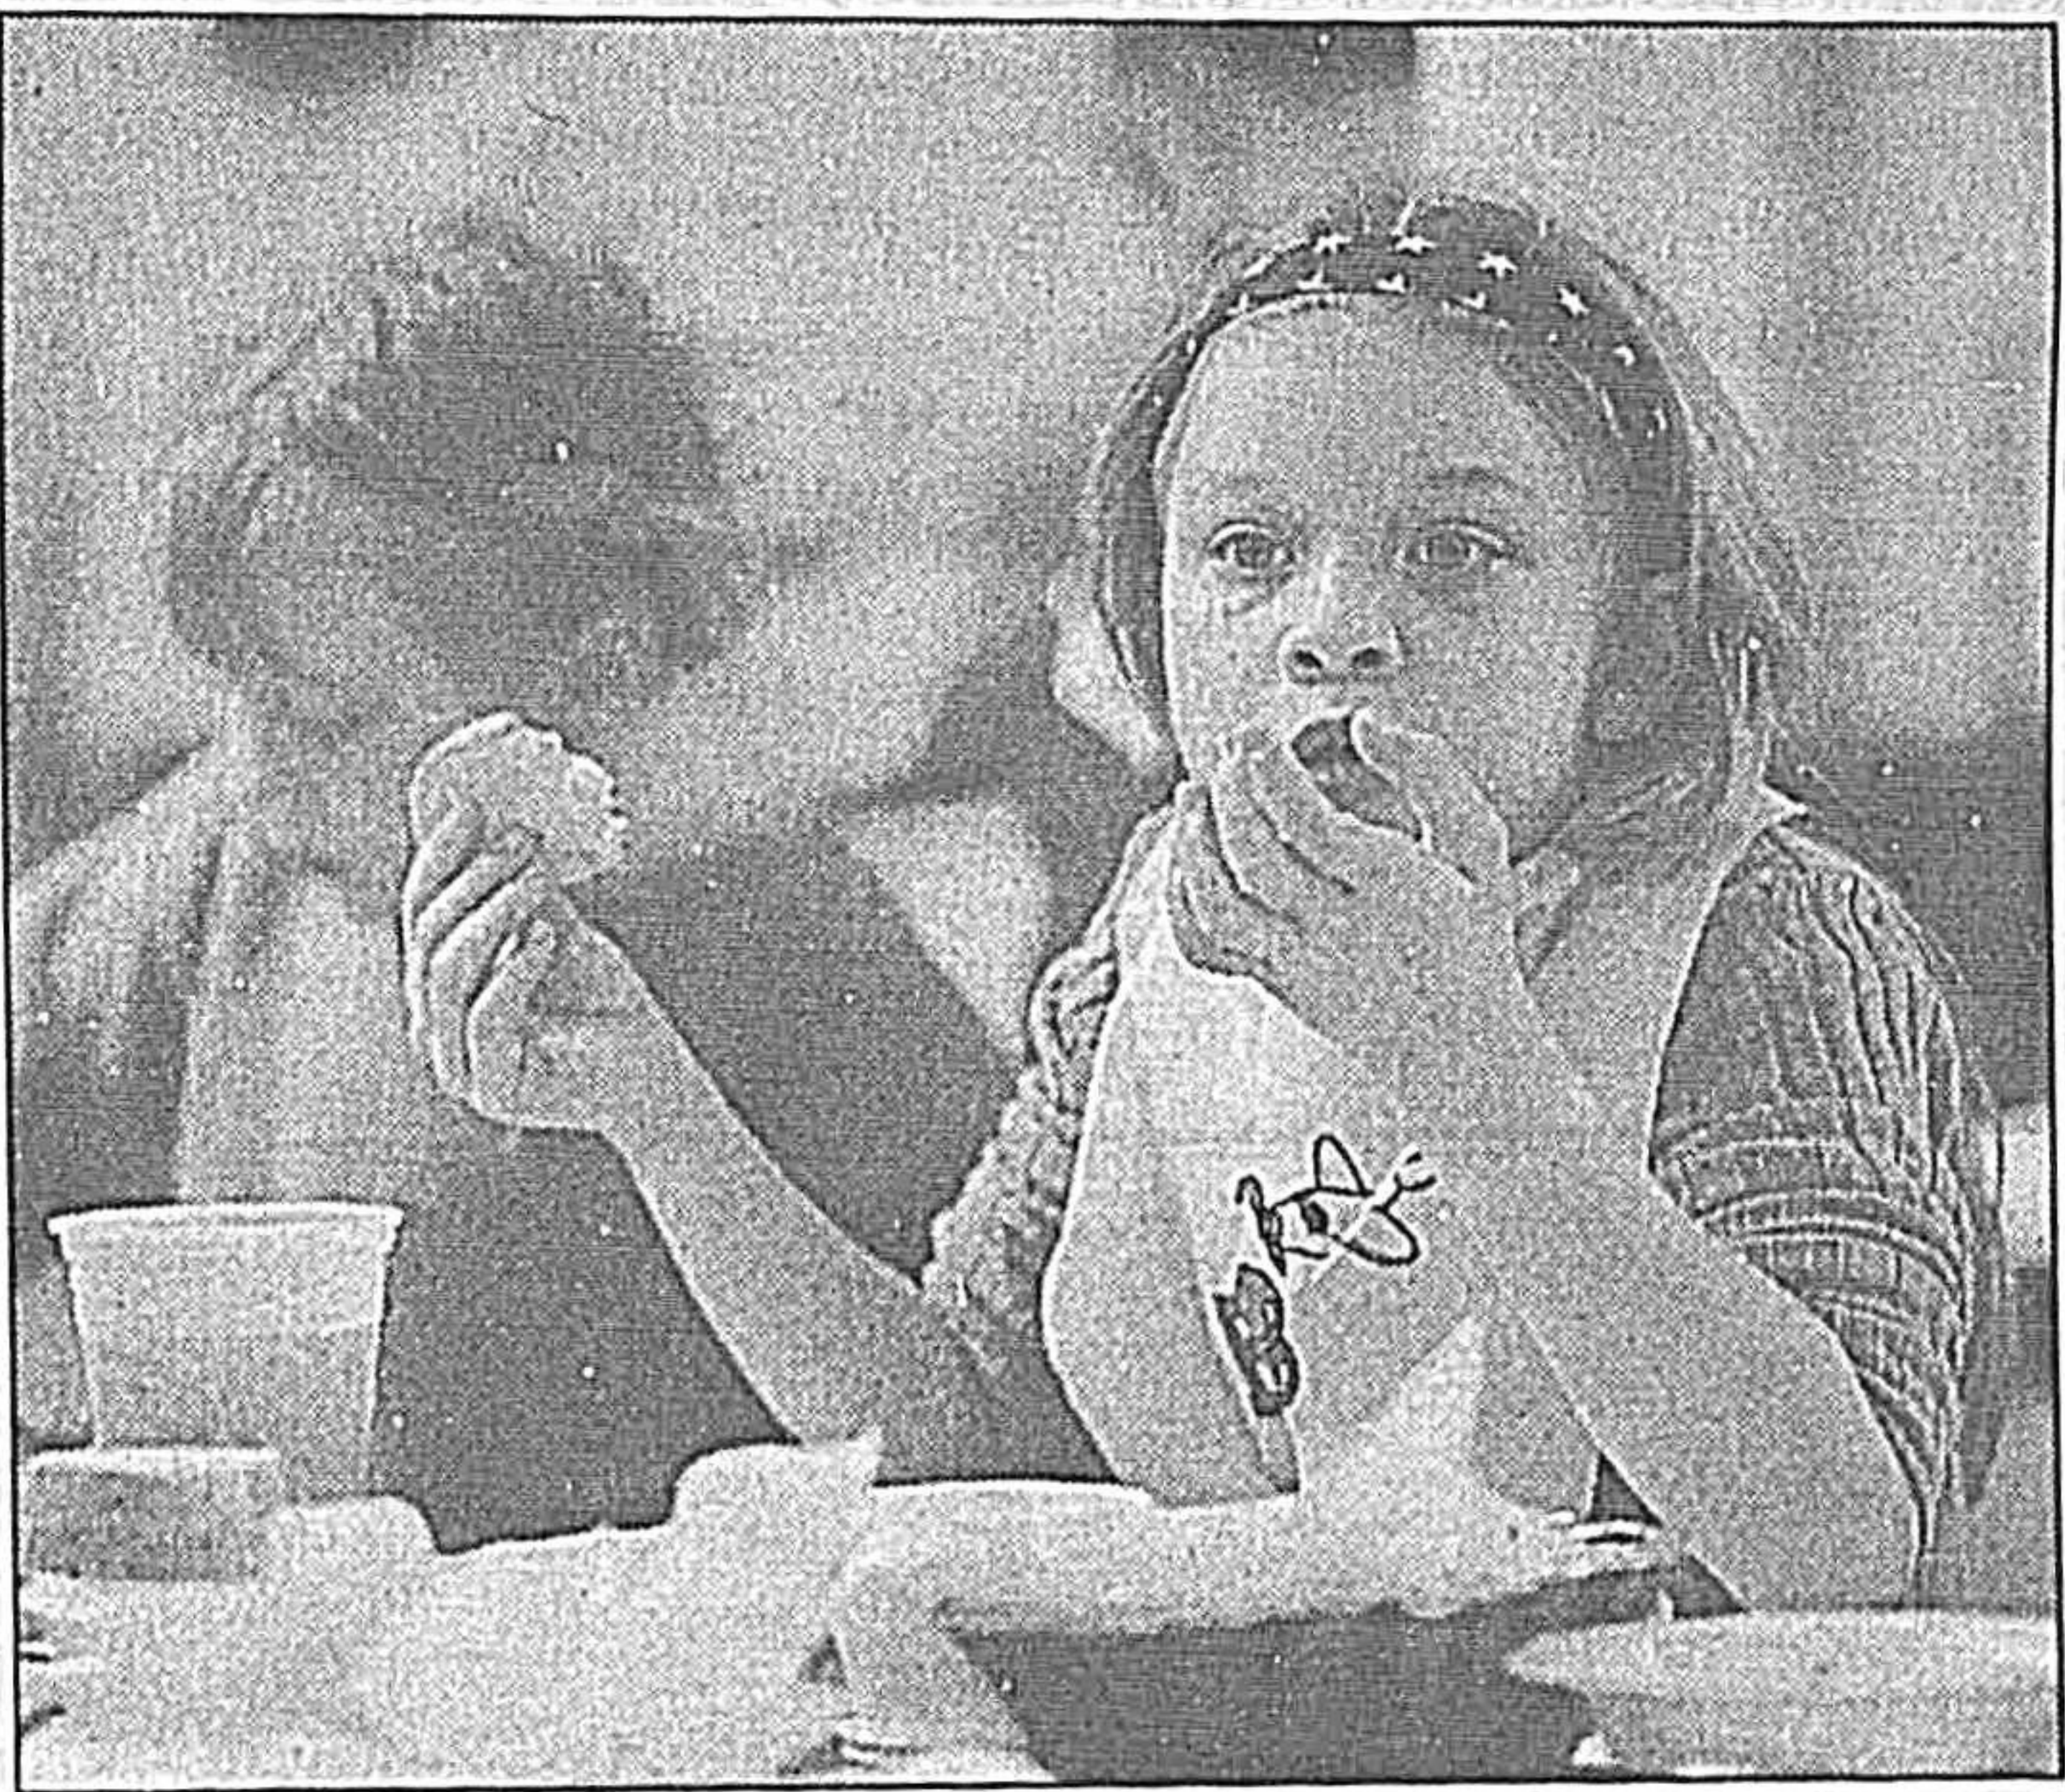

Neuman said the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. initiated a settlement agreement that Deercrest et al as revised between Sprenger, Deercrest, Lake County, the Forest Preserve Dist. and the Village of Antioch.

"This agreement would provide for the water system (water and sewerage) to be installed and final plat approvals to be completed," said Neuman. "The Forest Preserves is pushing for the settlement to go through, but this has been going on for a long time and we have major damages with the court."

This case initially went to court because the Forest Preserve Dist. would not grant an easement over the Glick property when it closed on the purchase of the property.

According to Neuman, if all parties accept this settlement agreement, an easement would go over the Glick property. He said the Forest Preserve Dist. is looking to receive "fair market price" for the easement.

Neuman added that, to date, the Village of Antioch has not responded to the proposed settlement agreement.

'Swing Street' supports HS music program

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Swing Street 2002 is back on March 8-9 at Antioch Community High School (ACHS) with a New York theme.

"We're really excited," said Sheri Fries of AMPS (ACHS Music & Performance Sponsors), a parents group that raises money for the school's band program. "The kids always do an excellent job."

Non-stop music will be performed by the ACHS A and B jazz ensembles, concert, symphonic, wind ensemble and advanced wind ensemble bands as well as the jazz choir, madrigals and theater members. "There will be a dance set a little past the halfway mark of the show," added Fries.

The school's south gym seats more than 300 people, according to Fries. This year, a $10 early entry ticket buys a pasta dinner with salad bread and a beverage as well. "This is a great option for those who want to have access to the best seating," said Fries. "Once the pasta dinner is gone, then snack foods like pizza, veggie trays, nachos and other things of that nature will be available."

Those who do not get the early entry tickets will still be able to buy food ala carte.

Each night there will be both a silent auction and raffles of items that were donated from businesses near and far. The grand prize is an overnight stay at the St. Louis Hyatt with tickets for a Cardinals game. Other prizes include hockey tickets, an autographed baseball and football and a "party with the puppies" at the Dairyland Grayhound track.

"Local businesses have been very generous," said Fries. "We also have had many parents donate gift baskets."

Early entry tickets are $10, and doors will open at 6 p.m. for those holding these tickets. Tickets can be purchased at the door. Regular tickets are $6 for adults, $4 for students and seniors, and free for children under 5 years old. For advanced tickets, call 395-1421, ext. 7794.

According to Fries, this program has been around for a decade and is the largest fundraiser of the year for AMPS. All of the money goes back to the ACHS instrumental music programs.

"No matter how much money we raise, it never seems like quite enough," she said. "It's a good, cheap night of entertainment."

MEASURES

Wells who left Antioch to work as administrator consultant there. Officials vow the indictment, and Wells leaving the village, will not have any impact on efforts for approval of a new $3 million police facility and day-to-day operations.

Fox Lake Mayor Nancy Koske said in a written statement, "The Village of Fox Lake is fortunate to have experience department heads leading their organizations, who are capable of ensuring the continuation of normal services. They have been unanimous in their praise of Mr. Wells' efforts and the positive impact the position has had with their activities."

Though Pete Jakstas, Sr., a critic of the new police station on the March 19 ballot, said, "It will be on every village resident's mind what is really happening in this town." He added, "The mayor asked me to look into the plan, but when we found $1 million in savings, they did not want to hear about it. The general public does not know what is going on with the police station. I hope this has a negative impact. It is better to come out now than after the voters vote."

INDICTMENT

Strickland said Wells "did a cut and paste job" to create documents to make it appear an account had been established for the Spiering fund at the State Bank of The Lakes. "He then delivered these documents to the senior council," said Strickland.

Wells also allegedly forged the signature of Shineflug on a "Memorandum of Agreement" that would allow the village to pay Howard a $20,000 stipend. Additionally, signatures were forged on the check in that amount to Howard. Both of these documents were delivered to Howard.

According to Strickland, Wells also delivered the forged memorandum to investigators from the State's Attorney office leading to the one count of obstruction of justice. "He also lied under oath in front of the Lake County grand jury on Jan. 16 regarding Shineflug's signature," said Strickland, which led to the charge of perjury against Wells.

Strickland said Wells was charged with unlawful stringing of bids because he attempted make it look like a "private entity" was hiring Diemer Plumbing and Excavating to revamp two bathrooms at the Senior Center. In reality, the village was contracting for the work to be done and that is an "open bid situation."

The second illegal bid was to move the Scout House. Strickland said Wells "flat out never went to get bids." He added that both state and Antioch ordinance require a bidding process for anything over $10,000.

Larson said she feels that Wells was always an exemplary employee. "He's guilty of managing too much on his own. He's guilty of giving the job to the right person, one whom the village had worked with many times and was known to do a good job. I don't believe he has a bad bone in his body."

Strickland said there might be pension implications for Wells due to the charges of official misconduct.

'BrickKicker' on advisory board

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"My goal has always been to help people," said Frank Johnson who independently owns (along with his wife Cathy) one of a nationwide franchise of The BrickKicker Home Inspection.

On Feb. 22, Johnson was appointed to serve on the Home Inspector Advisory Board by Gov. George Ryan and William Darr, commissioner of the Office of Banks and Real Estate (OBRE) that created the advisory board. With the appointment, Johnson will have broader opportunities to help.

"I got a push from the Lake County Board of Realtors," said Johnson. "They submitted my name."

The purpose of the board of seven (five home inspectors, one realtor and one citizen) is to represent public interest and make recommendations to OBRE about licensing, education, standards of practice, code of ethics as well as other matters. Recommendations will be considered by OBRE and be used in the implementation and regulation of licensing home inspectors in Illinois.

"I do what I do because I care about people," added Johnson, who also serves on the combined planning and zoning commission in Antioch. "My family has lived here for generations, and I want to ensure it remains a great place to live."

Additionally, Johnson is a certified member of the American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI) and an OBRE licensed continuing education instructor in Illinois. He was named the 2001 Affiliate of the Year for the Lake County Association of Realtors. He is a licensed home inspector in both Illinois and Wisconsin.

Wauconda Orchards holds auction

The public is invited to the final auction of furniture and fixtures at Wauconda Orchards beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, March 9. This will be the very last chance to get a firsthand look at one of the most famous family-run farms in Lake County and when the Auctioneer gavel the auction to a close, sometime around midday in Saturday, that chance will be gone forever.

"Wauconda Orchards still has quite a variety of interesting items that must be sold," noted Rick Breeden, President of the orchard tucked in the southwest corner of Lake County. "That includes tractors, restaurant equipment and other machinery used on the working farm. We also have a good selection of retail display cases, counters, furniture and other restaurant furnishings."

Buyers are sure to find some real bargains at the "everything will be sold" event and will realize additional values because there is no "buyer's premium" on any items purchased on March 9.

The March 9 public auction bring down the curtain on the final chapter of one of Lake County's most interesting stories. Marge and Dick Breeden, Rick's parents, planted the first apple trees at Wauconda Orchards, in 1951. The operation was truly a family enterprise, as all five Breeden children worked at the farm at one time or another. Now a half-century later, this is one of the last steps in the closing of the orchard, a process that began in earnest last September.

Loyal Wauconda Orchards customers can still buy many of their favorite items through the store's catalog operation. "Wauconda Orchards will stay in business with a very vibrant catalog and wholesale business," said Breeden. "You'll soon find Wauconda Orchards jams, jellies and other packages product available in select retail outlets."

For more information about the public auction at Wauconda Orchards, call 847-526-8553 or 800-36-APPLE.

The exhibit, titled "Paul Sierra: Symbols and Myths," will open with a public reception from 7-9 p.m. on March 1.

Sierra, who resides and paints in Chicago, was born in Havana, Cuba, and came to the United States in 1961. Though his works depict memories of his childhood impressions in Cuba, he universalizes his themes, often drawing upon classical Greek myths.

Sierra studied at the Art Institute of Chicago. His paintings have received national acclaim, and galleries in Chicago, Miami, Scottsdale and Los Angeles represent him. His works are in many prominent collections including the National Museum of Art, Smithsonian in Washington, D.C. and the Museum of Contemporary Art in Chicago.

The exhibit is partially supported by a grant from the Illinois Art Council, a state agency. The gallery hours are 8 a.m. - 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 1 - 5 p.m. Sundays. The hours during spring break will be 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. March 25-29. The gallery will be closed March 30 and 31.

For information, call Steve Jones, exhibit coordinator, at 847-543-2240.

Sourdough for home bakers, but allow for plenty of time

For a sourdough bread fix, we have turned to local specialty bakers or waited until making the rare trip to San Francisco. But a newly revised book by Ed Woods, "Classic Sourdoughs: a Home Baker's Handbook" (Ten Speed Press, 2001) may change that.

His volume presents not only the basics of activating a sourdough culture but also recipes for a number of French, cheese and herb breads (some bread-machine friendly) as well as pancakes, waffles and rolls.

The thing about sourdough is the time commitment. Before you even get near an oven, the proofing time to get a starter going may take days. This is no overnight project. Wood lays out details on how to capture bacteria, and what to do with it next.

Commercial culture is available from Sourdoughs International Inc., P.O. Box 670,

COOKING by the BOOK

Tom Witom

Cascade, ID or <http://www.sourdo.com>.

The author also goes into recommended ingredients and equipment from thermometers to homemade proofing boxes.

Our first foray into homemade sourdough took the form of a Greek-inspired "Olive-Onion Bread." It took a while, and our initial effort did not rise to its full potential, though the flavor was enjoyable.

Olive-Onion Bread

2 cups liquid sourdough culture
3 1/2 cups white flour
1/2 cup water
1 onion, firmly chopped

1 Tbl. olive oil, plus oil for brushing
1 cup chopped black olives*
1 tsp. salt

Mix the liquid sour dough culture with 1 cup of the flour in a large mixing bowl. This is the working culture. Proof 12 hours at room temperature (68 to 72 degrees) or 6 hours in a proofing box at 85 degrees.

Add 1 cup of the flour and 1/4 cup of the water. Mix and knead until smooth. Proof 8 hours at room temperature or 4 hours in the proofing box. After proofing, this is the fully active culture.

In a skillet, sauté the onion in the 1 tablespoon olive oil for 2 to 5 minutes, until translucent. Remove the skillet from the heat, add the olives and let cool.

Punch down the dough. Dissolve the salt in the remaining 1/4 cup water. Add to the dough and mix well. Reserve 1 cup of the flour for the board. Mix and spoon knead the remaining 1/2 cup flour into the dough. When too stiff to mix by hand, transfer to the floured board and knead in the remaining flour.

Flatten the dough by hand and with a rolling pin into a rectangle about 6 by 9 inches and 1/2 inch thick. Spread the onion-olive mix over the surface of the dough, leaving a 1-inch border uncovered on all sides. Roll up from a long side into a loaf. Pinch ends to seal.

Place on a baking sheet, cover lightly with plastic wrap and proof 2 hours at room temperature or 1 hour at 85 degrees. Make several diagonal slashes in the top of the loaf with a sharp edge. Brush with olive oil. Bake in a preheated oven at 375 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Cool on a wire rack. Makes one two-pound loaf. * We used pitted Kalamata olives and also sprinkled kosher salt on the exterior of the loaf.

The soup is on

There's nothing like a hot bowl of soup to go along with fresh baked bread. Soup is simple to prepare and so nutritious, especially when using fresh ingredients.

Here are two recipes for soup that are a time-saver. There's nothing quite like the mouth-watering aromas given off by a simmering pot of food. The term "keep it simple" truly applies to this type of cookery, which can be altered by using ingredients on hand.

Potato & Ham Soup

Serves 3 to 4

2 cups red potatoes, peeled & cubed
3 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, chopped fine
3 tablespoons flour
cayenne pepper
black pepper
3 cups milk

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked, cubed ham
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese, (4 ounces)
fresh chopped parsley or chives for garnish, if desired

Cook potatoes in boiling water until tender. Drain; reserve 1 cup of the liquid. Melt butter in a saucepan over medium heat. Add onion; cook, stirring, until tender. Stir in flour; season with red and black pepper. Cook for about 3 more minutes, stirring. Add potatoes, reserved liquid, milk, and salt; stir well. Add ham; simmer for 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and let cool for about 5 minutes. Add cheese; stir until melted. Top with fresh parsley or chives, if desired.

Crock Pot Beef Stew

3 carrots, cut up
3 potatoes, cut up
2 lb. beef chuck or stew meat cut into 1 to 2-inch cubes
1 cup water or beef stock
1 tsp. Worcestershire

1 garlic clove
1 bay leaf
Salt to taste
1/2 Tbs. pepper
1 tsp. paprika
3 onions, quartered

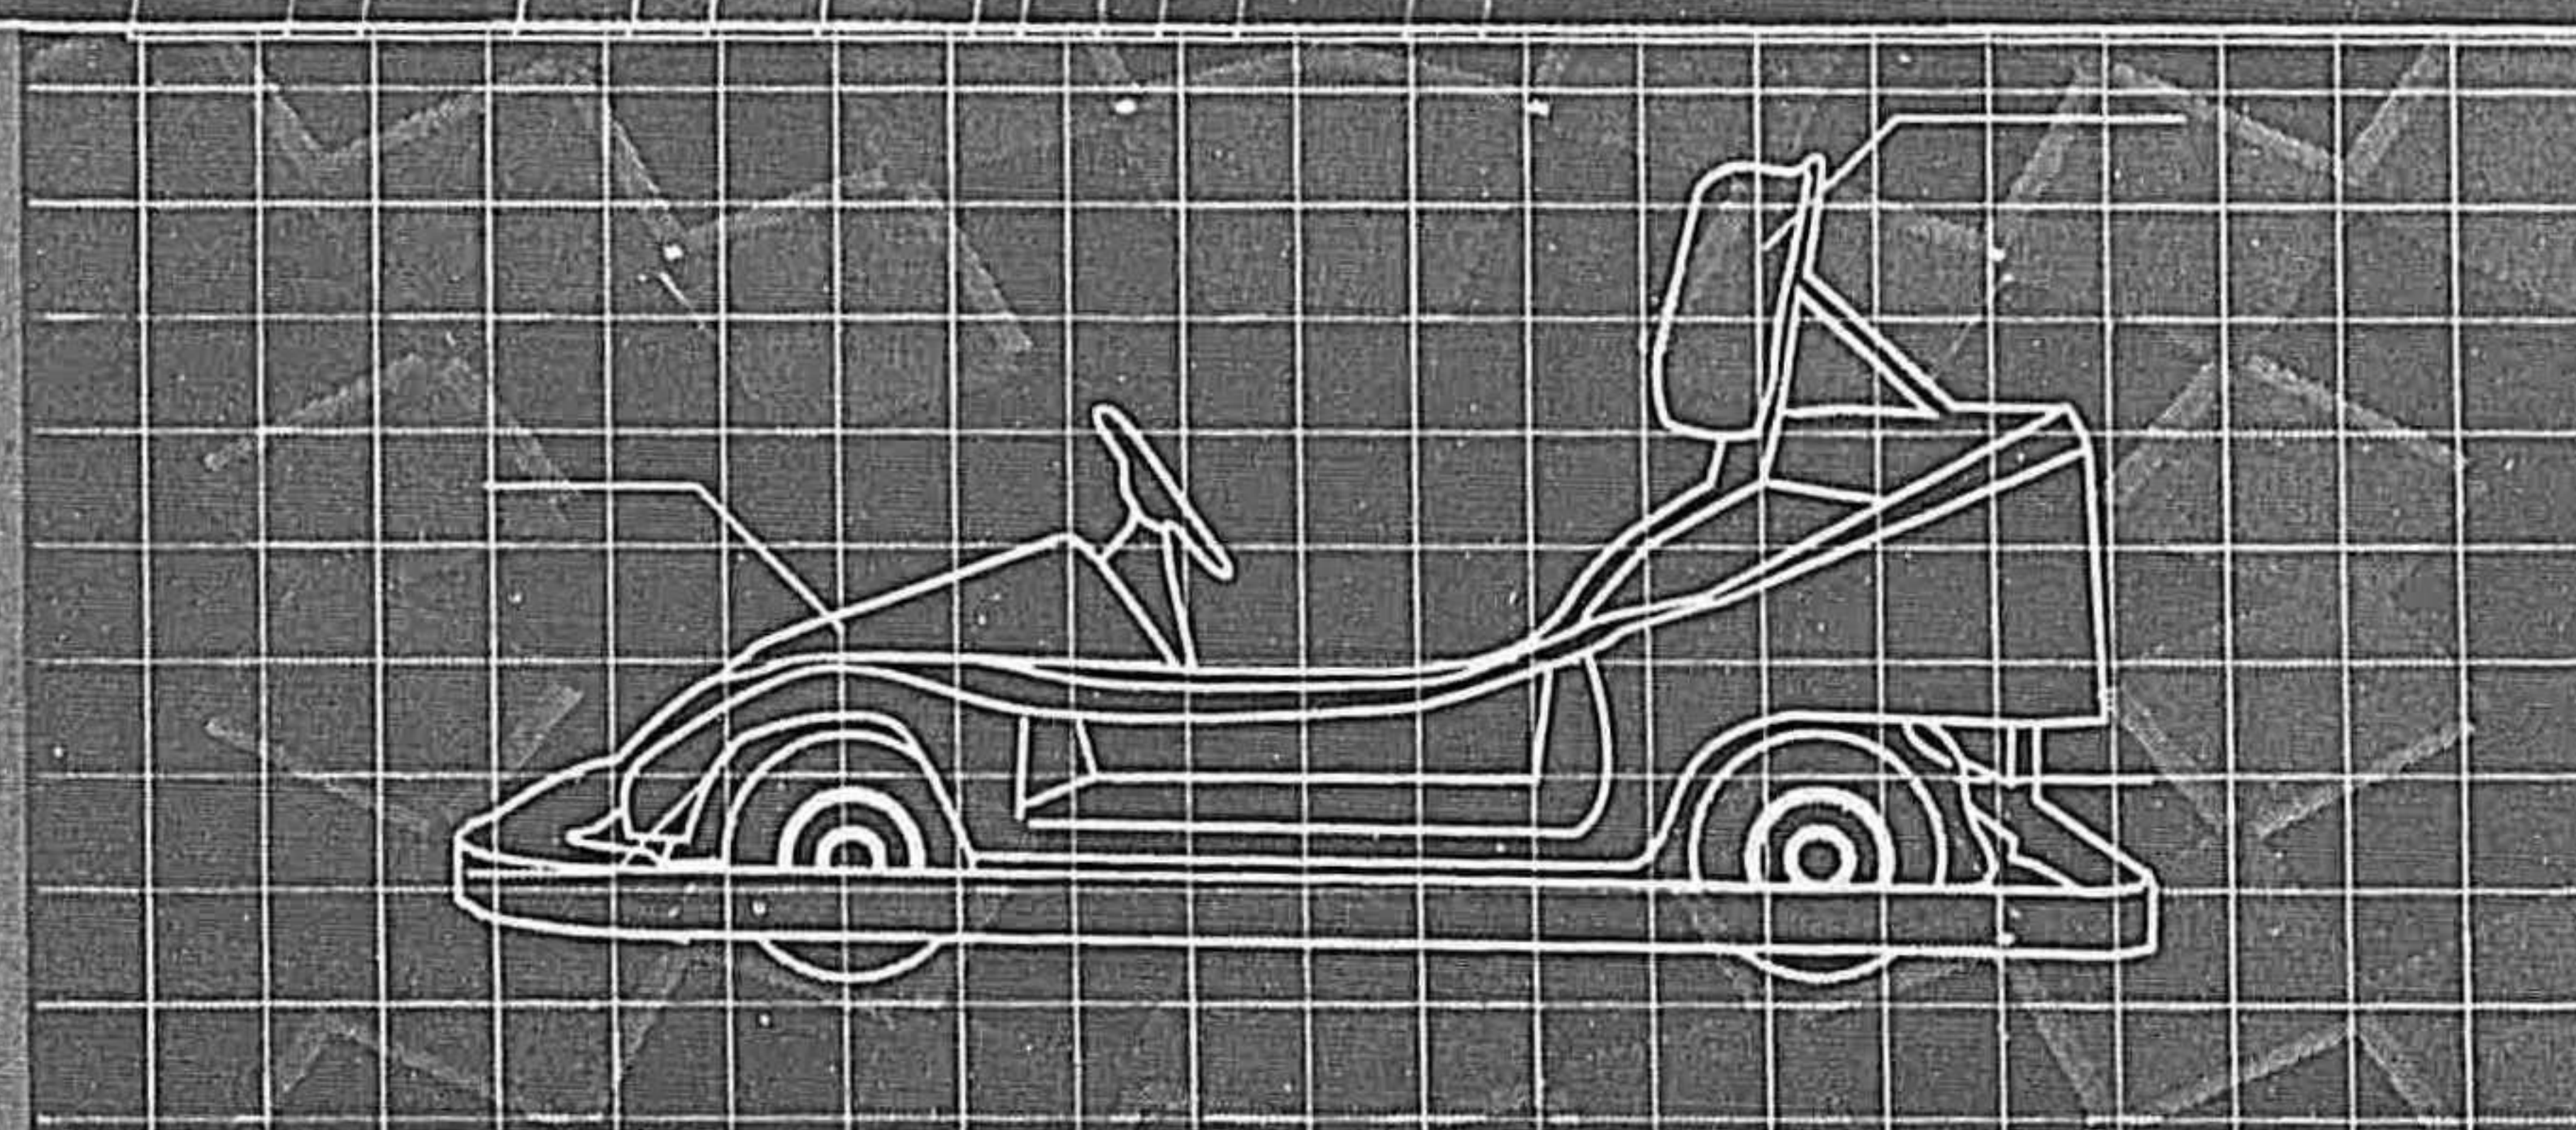

Put all ingredients in crock pot in order listed. Stir just enough to mix spices. Cover and set to low for 10-12 hours. (High 5-6 hours)

to entertain, challenge and bring people together

Daughter of the Blues

Sister of showmanship to perform

Shirley King's first appearance at Pops Highwood will be Saturday March 9.

With a voice as powerful as that of her legendary father, Shirley King, daughter of B.B. King, will bring the blues home when she debuts with Rankinyle at Pops Highwood, 214 Green Bay Rd., in Highwood, from 8:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m. on Saturday, March 9.

Often called the Daughter of the Blues, King is known in her own right for her high-energy performance and musical genius. King presents the standards she grew up on with such emotion that the audience embraces them as if they are being performed for the first time.

The "Jazz Rhythm Masters" Tony Rankin and Rankinyle can be heard regularly at Pops for Champagne, Chicago and Pops Highwood. Their latest album, "Interlude," has been greeted with enthusiasm by lovers of their funky jazz rhythms.

This will be King's first appearance at Pops Highwood. There will be a $8 cover. No reservations will be taken.

Additional musicians schedule are: The Ron Surace Trio and Gerald McClendon Band will play on March 2, the Redd Holt Trio and Katherine Davis Band on March 16, the Dave Gordon Trio and Pat Hall and The Fat Guys on March 23, and the Mansfield Blues Band on March 30. Fridays will feature the Typhanie Monique Quartet on March 1, the Steve Ditzell Blue Lightning Band on March 8, Leslie Byers and The Jazz Cats on March 15, BMR4 on March 22, and the Mathew Skoller Quartet on March 29.

Pops Highwood bar area is open from 5 p.m.-1 a.m., Monday through Saturday, with live music. The jazz club is open from 7 p.m.-2 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays with live music and dancing in a smoke-free environment.

Free parking is available. For information call 847-266-1313.

Free reader's theater

Free entertainment is the best entertainment, and Antioch's PM&L Theatre will be presenting a readers' theater adaptation of "The Hobbit" by J.R.R. Tolkien gratis on Sunday, March 3 at 2:30 p.m.

The reader's theater is an informal format in which the script is read and few, if any, props and costumes are used.

There is no admission fee for this event, and reservations are not needed. The production will last 60-90 minutes, and refreshments will be served immediately after to allow audience members and opportunity to meet and have conversation with the cast.

PM&L Theatre is located at 877 Main St., Antioch. For more information, call 847-395-3433.

Safety class scheduled

The Northern Illinois Conservation Club (NICC) will be having a Hunters' Safety class on two consecutive Saturdays in April. The classes will be held on April 20 and April 27 from 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

Ronald Flugg of the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources (IDNR) will be the instructor. Certificates will be given to adults and children who attend both sessions and pass a test.

The fee is $10. Beverages will be provided, but participants should bring their own sack lunches. Class size is limited.

To make reservations, call Peter Poli at 262-862-6062 and leave a message.

Rescue Squad plans ongoing relief efforts

The Antioch Rescue Squad is establishing a drop off station at its headquarters located at 825 Holbek Dr. for the disaster recovery effort in New York.

The American Red Cross in New York told the Antioch Rescue Squad that it would be in need of the following items over the next 10-14 months: Vicks VapoRub, knee pads, respirator masks, saline nasal spray, camping shovels, new work boots (size 10 and larger), large and extra large T shirts, flashlights, flashlight batteries, work socks, coveralls with suspenders (K-Mart) and work gloves.

Additionally, small cash donations will be needed to help offset the costs incurred by the rescue squad for packing and shipping.

CPR classes held

The Antioch Rescue Squad and the Antioch Fire Dept. offer CPR classes to the public on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at 6 p.m. at the Antioch Fire Dept. located at 835 Holbek Dr.

Drivers over 55 learn to stay alive

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A class designed specifically for drivers over the age of 55 years old will be held at the Antioch Township Center on March 19-20.

The class, 55 Alive, was designed by AARP to address safety issues and help to keep seniors on the road longer.

"I've taken the course four times myself," said Sharon Nowak who is coordinating the registration. "It offers just what a senior should know to keep driving."

Nowak said the course curriculum covers defensive driving, safety tips and information about giving a vehicle a small inspection before driving off. She said, "It also covers any changes there may have been to rules and regulations."

The two-day course runs from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on both Tuesday and Wednesday. There is a $10 fee that covers the cost of the written materials distributed and the trained instructor who teaches the course. Seniors are not required to be AARP members to participate.

"There is a lot of discussion during the class," said Nowak. "There are films and written material. It's a lot to cover."

Seniors who complete the course are eligible for 10 percent discounts on auto insurance by certain carriers.

Registration runs through Wednesday, March 13. Those interested should call Nowak at 847-395-5068 to secure a spot in the class.

Step aside

Building a dynasty is somewhat of an art. But the Vernon Hills varsity girl's gymnastics team has got the right idea.

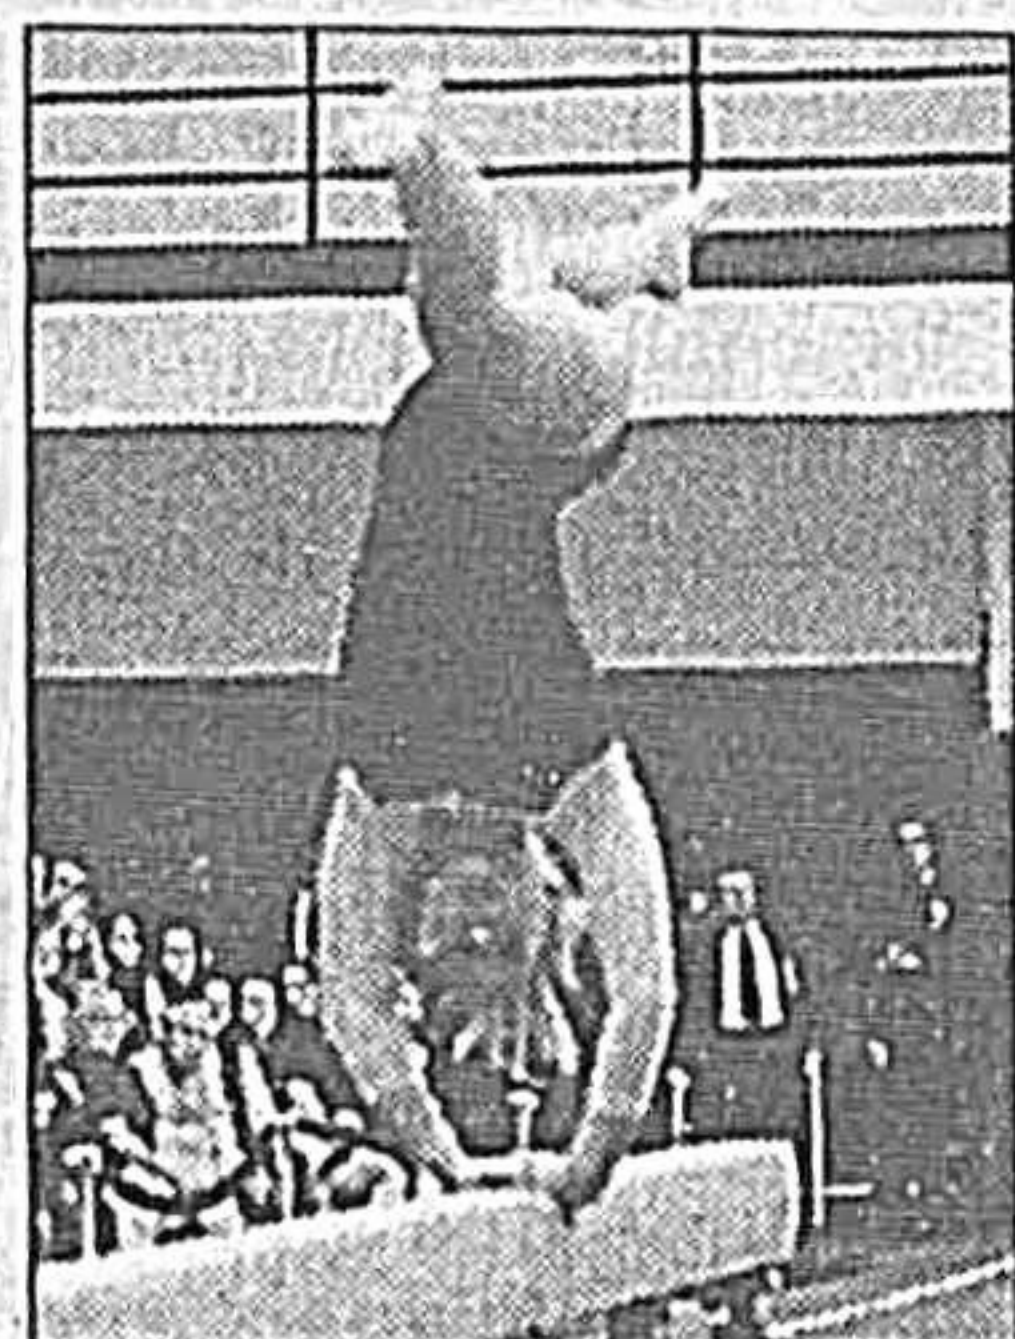

After narrowly missing qualifying as a team last year, the Cougars earned a team berth at the IHSA State finals at Palatine High School.

"We didn't have the depth, plus we were plagued by injuries," said head coach Tracy Carlson of last year's team.

"We've never had that depth, say, like Stevenson or Warren does. I tell the girls that you're probably going to be doing all-around, not just one or two events."

Persevering through injuries again this year, along with, oh, having just a little bit of talent, Carlson's Cougars finally broke through as one of the elite teams.

Vernon got solid showings all season by all-around performers Jamie Milarski, Lauren Hallyburton, Kristin Filippa and Kim Mueller.

Lauren Hallyburton

At the state meet, which Vernon finished fourth out of eight squads competing, Hallyburton was the only team member to place, earning sixth on the beam (9.175).

Fortunately for Vernon, Carlson has the sophomore for two more years. In addition to the return of Milarski and Kim Mueller, both juniors, and sophomore Stephanie Wollar, Vernon has the nucleus to be viable contenders for a state berth once again next year.

And as the proverbial wheel turns, though, Vernon will have holes to fill with Briana Plath, Jessica Fergen and Filippo graduating this spring.

"They were our leaders and co-captains. They will be missed," said Carlson.

Don't worry. The precedent has been set, and Carlson is poised for the challenge.

"We have a sophomore, a level 9-10 in Beth Kliver, that might join us," said Carlson. "She's been mostly involved in club. But that's what we're hoping to build on. The club gymnasts like representing their school."

Carlson is quick to credit a fine supporting cast.

"(Lake Forest coach) Robin Strauss has been a mentor for me," said Carlson. "She's been a great supporter and has made me feel right at home."

In addition, high praise also goes from Carlson to spotters Vernon pole vault coach Jeff Morello and Nancy Toland, who teaches dance physical education at Mundelein.

The sixth man, as they call it in basketball, has also been a big part of the team's success.

It showed. Over 150 students and fans made the trip to Palatine.

"We won the sportsmanship banner," said Carlson. "It's based on fan support, your team's support of other teams, and how you handle injuries. Things like that."

Precedent is clearly the operative word as the Vernon gymnasts have now joined the school's math and football teams in getting a taste of that ultimate goal—tasting state competition.

Congratulations to Grayslake's Rachel Miner, Lake Zurich's Patti Hornung, Carmel's Megan Lick and Antioch's Alex Milka. All four qualified for the finals of the IHSA Three-point Shootout by virtue of finishing in the top-4 at last week's Lake Zurich sectional. In the event, Miner netted 12 treys, Hornung nine, Lick eight and Mika seven. All four girls headed to Redbird Arena on the campus of Illinois State University on Feb. 28 where they competed in the preliminaries of the state tournament.

No shame for Sequoit boys hoops

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

A couple of free throws here and a couple of converted lay-ups there. Those were the missing elements as Antioch bowed out to Highland Park 46-47 in first-round regional play.

Despite finishing the 2001-02 campaign 9-18 overall, a sense of satisfaction was felt around the locker room after the game.

"We played a pretty solid game overall," said Antioch head coach Jeff Dresser. "They (Highland Park) just had a little too much firepower for us. They're a good team. But I had a lot of fun with this team. Their work ethic was great. They worked hard in practice every day."

Center Josh Bonner also expressed satisfaction for the team, as well as for himself.

"We could have done better this season," the 6-foot, 6-inch senior said after pouring in a team-high 17 points to go along with 10 boards. "But this was a pick-up year for me. The last two years we had guys like Don (Lackey) and Eric (White). It was kind of nice being one of the team's go-to guys."

Bonner almost single-handedly kept Antioch (9-18) in the game during the third quarter, scoring seven of the team's 12 points. Senior point-guard Allen Patin was another spark, scoring eight points, including two treys.

"We had some fumbles out there tonight," said Patin, one of the team's co-captains along with senior forward Brian Walsh. "We played solid but just came up a little short. There's no reason for us to hang our heads."

Antioch slowed down the pace in the first half, but had trouble getting the ball inside.

Field goal shooting wasn't at its best as the Sequoits shot 12-for-37 for the game, 2-of-10 in the opening act.

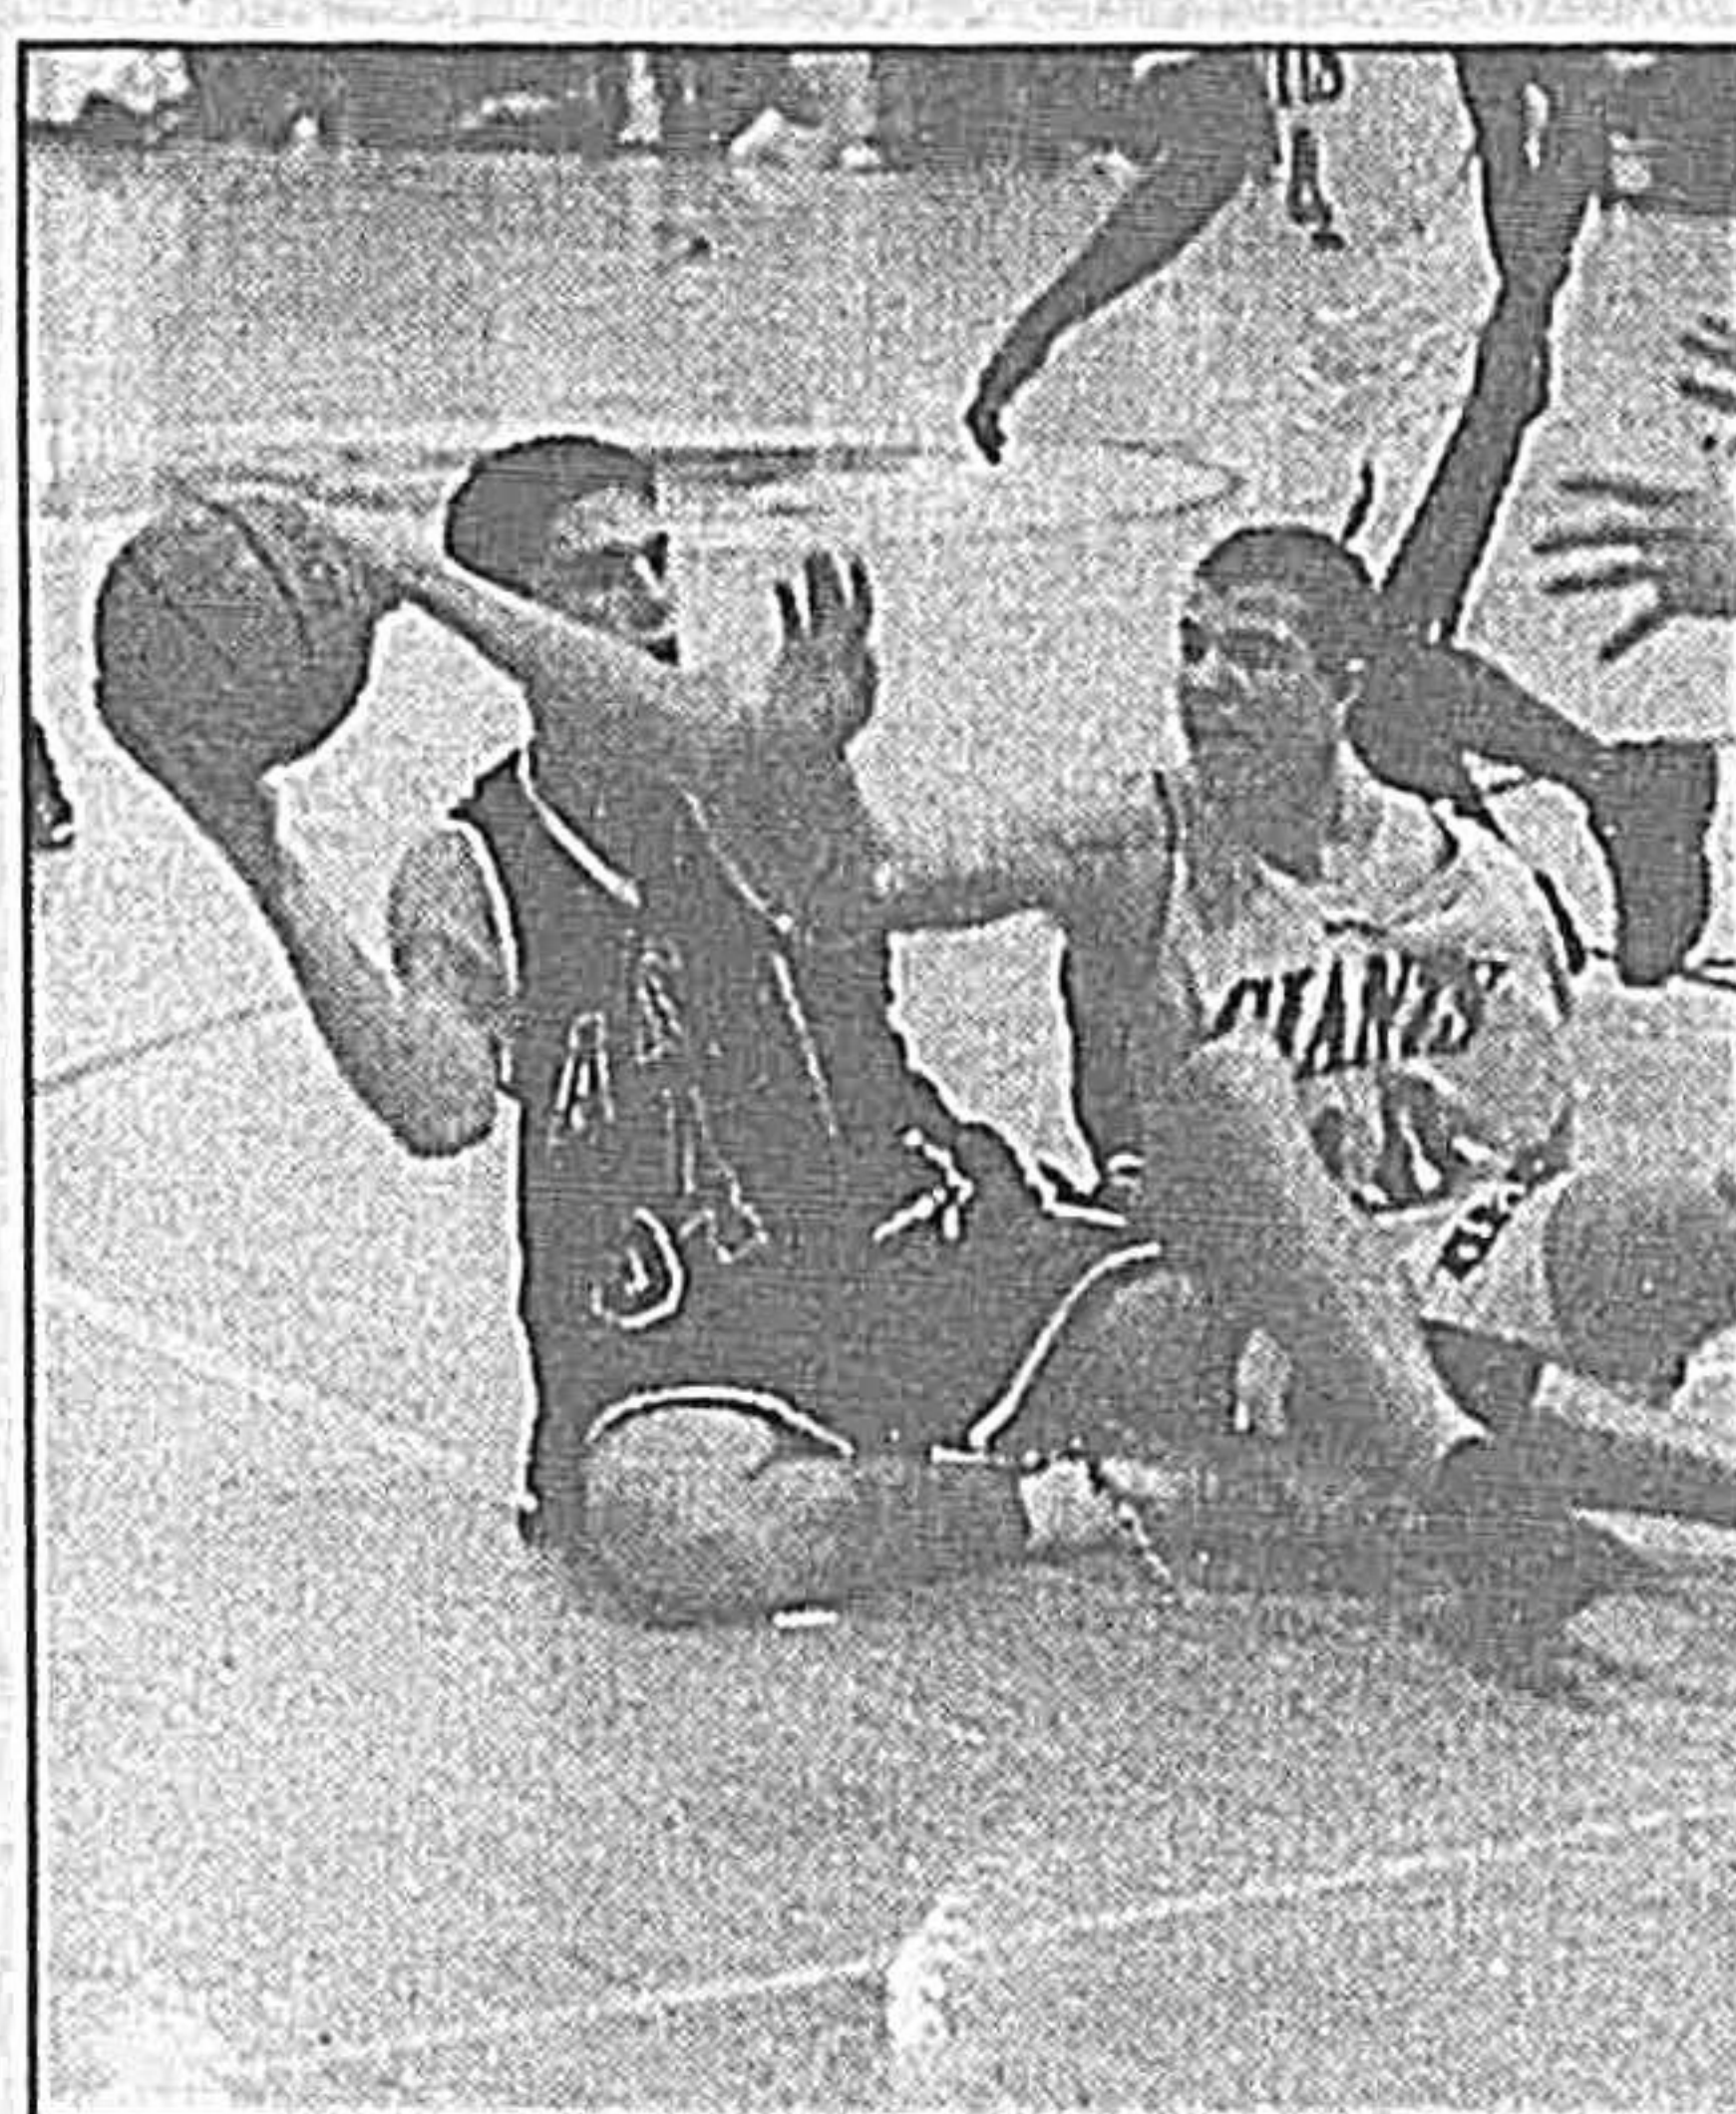

"Free-throws also hurt us," added Bonner, who plans on attending either the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater or Elmhurst College to major in physical education.

For the game, Antioch, which started driving inside in the second half, connected on only 10-of-19 from the charity stripe.

Despite that, Dresser was proud his team "gave Highland Park a game."

The Sequoits will be rebuilding, with the losses of Patin, Bonner, Ray Norton, Justin Mehaffey, Walsh, Tom Woodruff and Nick Vultaggio graduating this spring.

Looking to step into the limelight next year includes juniors Brad Hoogerhyde, Mike Addison, Andrew Mazulis, Ryan Bell, Nick Severson and Ben Newton.

CLC prepares for battle without top pitcher Mitchell

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

Coming off a season in which his team finished 42-13 on its way to a Skyway Conference championship and a berth in the state finals, CLC head coach Gene Hanson was confident that his team could be even more successful in 2002.

Although his team lost Skyway Player of the Year Adam Miller and All-American Brett McCollum, who accounted for 40-percent of CLC's offense, to graduation, the Lancers were to return 12 players including six members of their starting lineup from 2001.

Los Angeles Dodgers' draft pick Jason Schuler, who is already one of the top catchers in CLC history after just one year, will be counted on heavily, both offensively and defensively.

CLC was also set to return starting pitchers Matt Mitchell (8-2 in 2001), Donny Leicht (6-1) and Chris Ramig (7-3) along with bullpen arms Danny Braswell (4-2), Brad Spletter (4-0) and Rick Trampke (4-0).

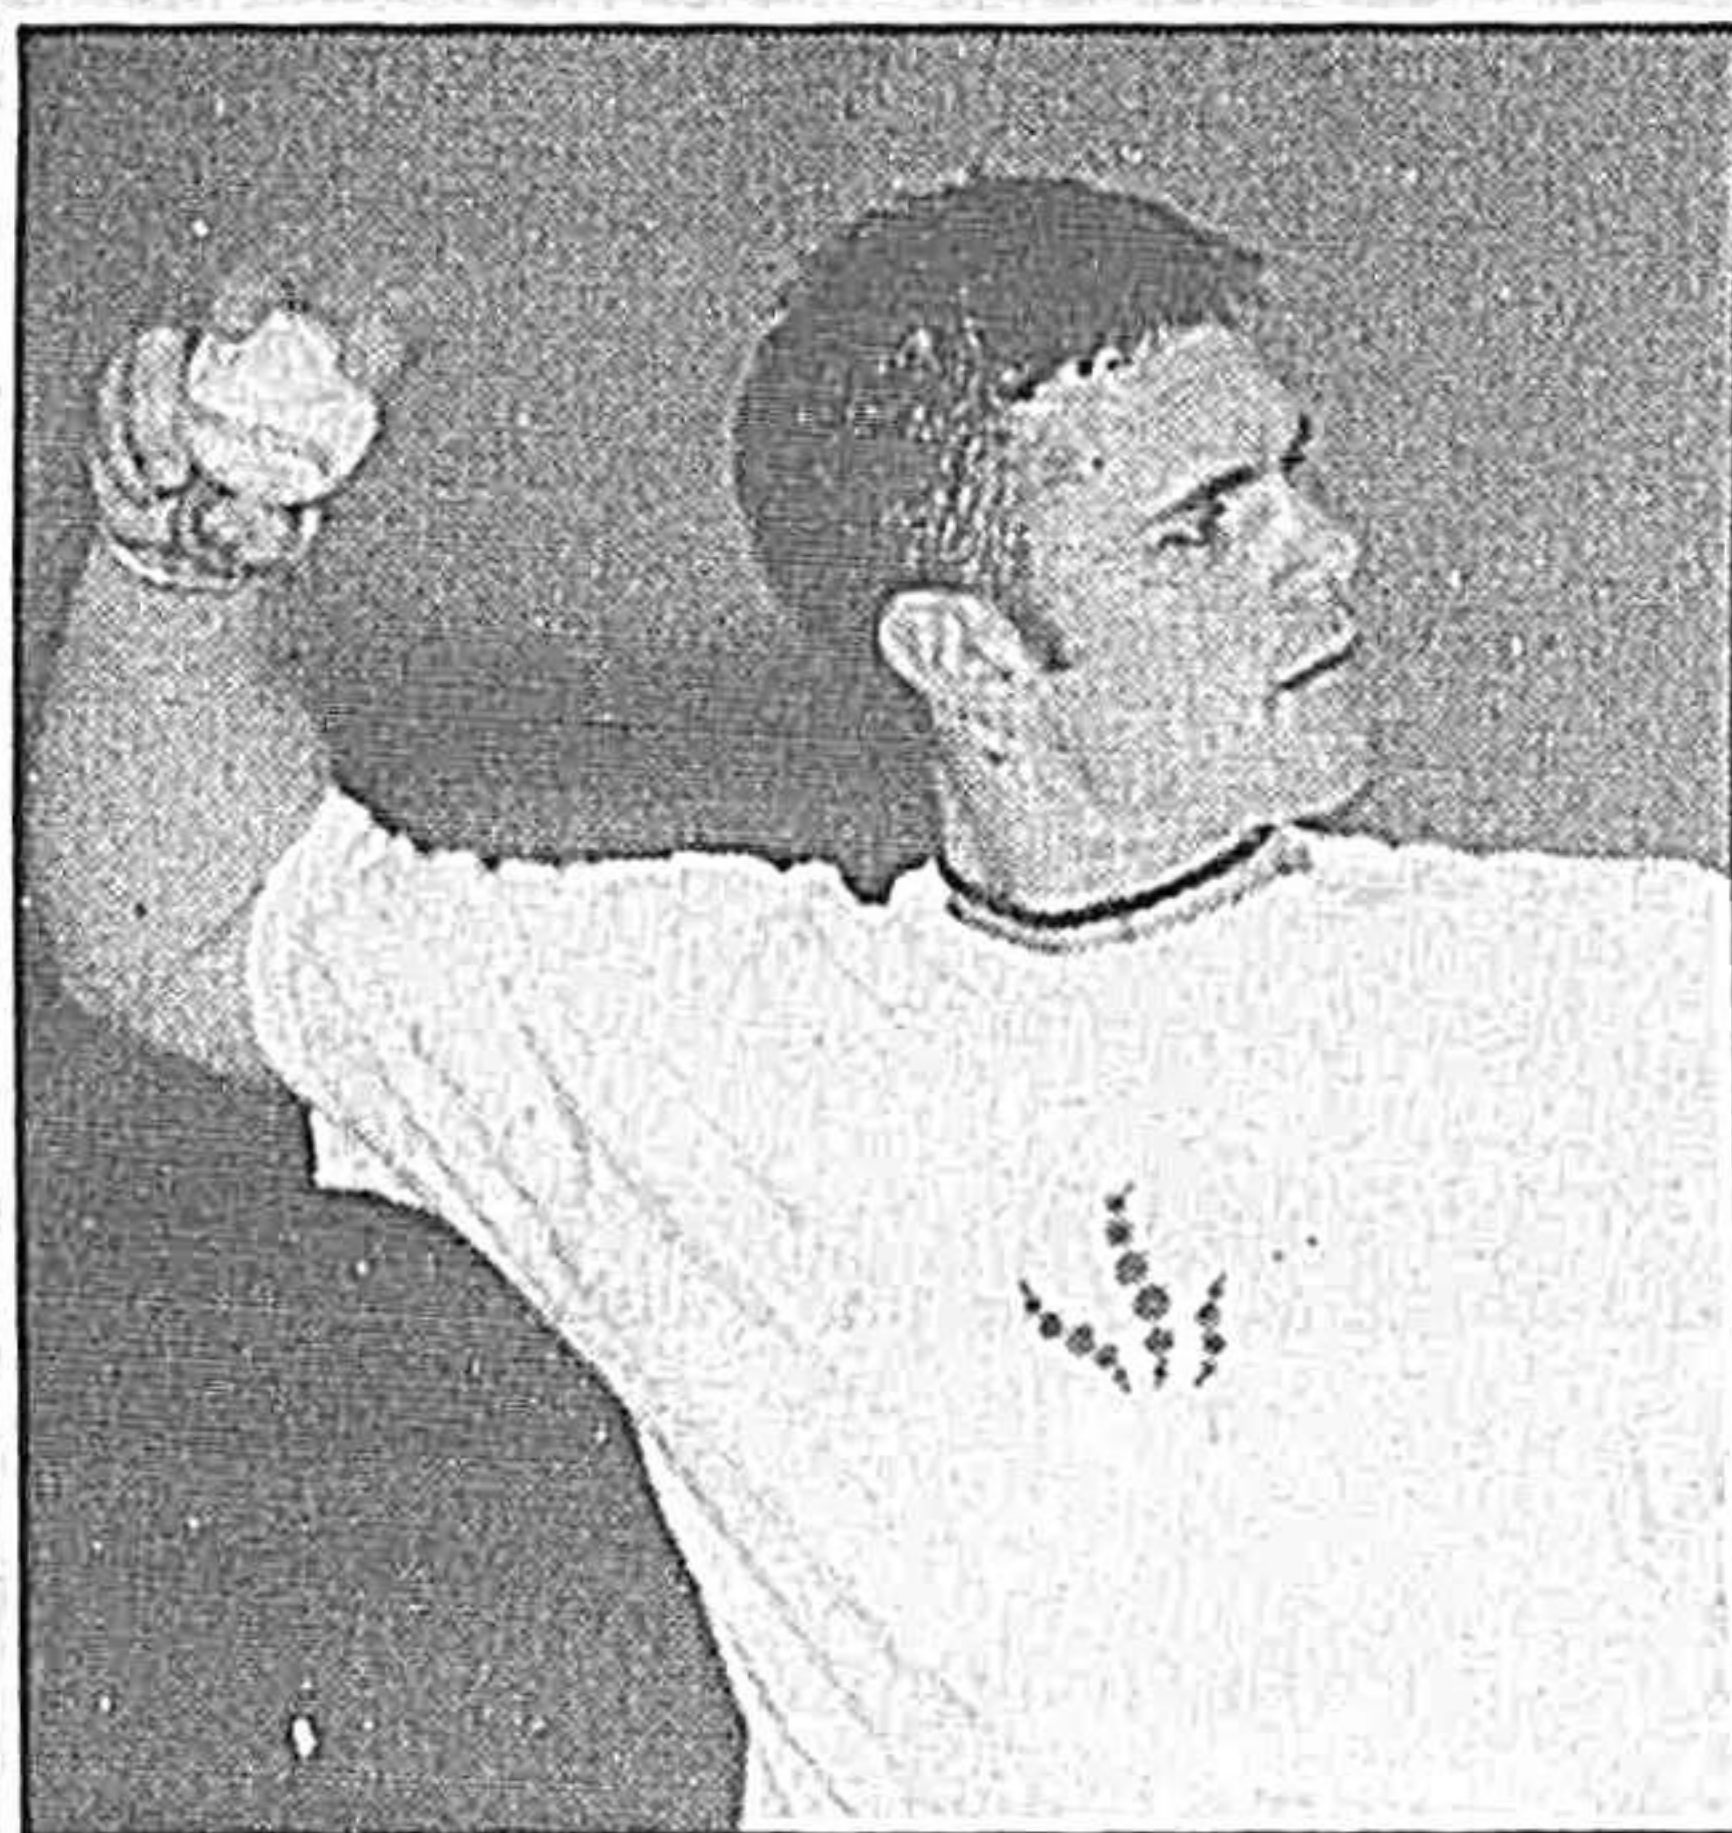

The Lancers also have a strong infusion of freshmen including Grayslake's Alex Frank, Tim Baum and Warren's Russ Schaibly.

"Alex, Tim and Russ should give us quite a bit of offense," said Hanson. "Our offense should be pretty good this year."

However, CLC was dealt a huge blow prior to the season when Mitchell, a 14th-round selection of the White Sox, tore a shoulder muscle and will be lost to season-ending shoulder surgery.

"That was a major loss," said Hanson. "We have enough quality starting pitchers, but now we have to approach the season differently."

College of Lake County baseball player and former Antioch High standout Jason Schuler warms up the arm during practice at the Physical Education Center. Schuler, a sophomore catcher, was drafted last spring by the Los Angeles Dodgers. CLC opens their regular-season March 2-3 with two games at Milliken University in Decatur.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

Despite such a devastating subtraction from CLC's rotation, the team is taking the loss well.

"We didn't skip a beat in practice," said Hanson. "We have an older, experienced team that knows that it (Mitchell's injury) is a part of the game and there's nothing they can do about it."

With the loss of Mitchell, Schaibly, slated to be the team's closer and starting first baseman, will have to move into the starting rotation.

"He (Schaibly) is a good pitcher. But we wanted him in the field all the time," said Hanson. "Now there's a bit more pressure on him."

While the team is better on paper than last year's club, CLC's tough schedule will make it harder for the Lancers to win as many games in the regular season.

"We've eliminated some non-competitive teams from our schedule, which will make it much tougher on us," said Hanson. "No one expected as much from us last year because we were so young, so now teams will be a little more alert to us. I'm not sure we'll min as many games but we can be better than last year."

Hanson has set his team's goals to include another Skyway title and a better showing in the state finals, something the team's tougher schedule should make a little easier.

"Come tournament time, we'll be a better team because of our tough schedule," said Hanson.

CLC's season has already begun with their annual two-day trip to the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Zion-Benton stings Cats for NSC title

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Several teams from the area might be ready to surprise but something says Zion-Benton and Libertyville are destined to meet each other one final time. If everything pans out according to the brackets, the top-seeded Cats would play the Bees, the No. 2 seed, for the sectional title at Waukegan March 8.

Up to this point, the two heavyweights have exchanged blows twice, one round going to each.

The latest encounter was the North Suburban title game, hosted by Zion.

After outgunning Zion two weeks earlier on its home turf, Libertyville had the favor returned to the tune of an 85-65 decision.

Meanwhile, Zion, the Prairie Division champ with a perfect 10-0 mark, had a solid supporting cast in shutting down Libertyville.

Zee-Bee junior guard Andre White did his thing, scoring 20 points to go along with five rebounds and five assists. But it was running mate, sophomore guard Julian Lott that was the thorn in the Cats side on this night.

Lott, who moved into the starting line-up during last season, poured in a game-high 21 points on 8-of-14 field goal shooting.

"We definitely rebounded better and got back on defense to stop their (Libertyville's) transition game," said Lott, who averages close to 15 points per game. "We worked on that (stopping the transition game) all week in practice. They scored 28 points against us in transition two weeks ago."

But White's lay-up with 6:40 to play upped the lead to 10 (65-55) and Zion was off to an 18-5 spree to put the game out of reach.

"I told Julian (Lott) if you're feeling it, get open and I'll get you the ball," said White, who leads the county with his 20 point per game clip.

"He did a great job of penetrating. I think we had them playing scared late in the third quarter. That's when we kind of starting taking over the game."

In what turned out to be the decisive fourth frame, Zion hit 7-of-14 shots while the Cats managed just 4-for-14 field goal shooting.

Junior guard Austin Yarc pumped in 18 points, Pete Silvestri 13 and Ben Engstrom 11.

Zion-Benton guard Travaris Russell sparked the Bees in the first quarter, chipping in eight of his 10 points as Zion built a 23-13 advantage.

And bouncing back is right. Libertyville cruised past North Chicago 84-58. Engstrom and Silvestri lit up the scoreboard, pumping in 26 and 22 points, respectively.

The Cats will now host eighth-seeded Deerfield for the regional title Mar. 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Celebrity hoops game April 6

What do the faculty and board of educators at Dist. 76 and some of the Chicago Bears players have in common?

Members from both will square off once again in the Third Annual Celebrity Basketball game April 6 at Mundelein High School.

Proceeds from the event go towards West Oak School in Mundelein.

Faculty from West Oak, Fairhaven and Daimond Lake Schools will play members of the Central Division champion Chicago Bears. Bears players scheduled to appear include Jerry Azumah, Marty Booker, James "Big Cat" Williams, Tony Parrish, Warrick Holdman and Jim Miller.

The format will be a little different this year, though.

"Instead of the faculty playing against the Bears for all four quarters, we'll have the West Oak seventh- and eighth-grade boys team playing the Bears for the first quarter. Then, the West Oak seventh- and eighth-grade girls team will play against them for the third quarters," said West Oak Assistant Principal Lea Keilwitz.

Meanwhile, the faculty members will have their shot at the Bears during the second and fourth quarters.

The evening won't be just basketball. At halftime, the nationally-known Jesse White Tumblers will perform a variety of acrobatic tumbling routines.

Disc jockey Mike Hill of Synergy Productions, along with West Oak cheerleaders, will also perform during timeouts.

"We had D.J. Mike at our graduation last year. He was very entertaining. The kids loved him," added Keilwitz.

Doors open at 5:30 p.m. with the basketball game getting underway roughly at 7. Then, at 8:30, Bears' players will hold an autograph and picture session.

"It's a great night of fun, with a chance to meet some of the Bears up close," said Keilwitz.

Tickets are $5 for students and adults in advance and $8 at the door the night of the event. Children under the age of 3 are admitted free of charge.

Ticket forms are available at West Oak, Fairhaven and Diamond Lake schools.

For the record, the Bears contingent won the previous two meetings but not without a valiant effort given by the faculty members.

Jr. Sequoit hoops improving

The Antioch sixth-grade Jr. Sequoit boy's feeder basketball team struggled to a 1-2 record last week. In a 31-28 loss to Grant, Trey Williams pumped in 12 points and Chris Palmer added nine. Other standouts included Steve Nosek, John Androus, Andrew Stein and Dan Kalb.

The Jr. Sequoits rebounded for a 35-24 victory over Wauconda. Williams netted 16, Stein nine and James Androus four in the win. Palmer, Kalb, John Androus, Matt Laine, Timmy David and Jimmy Hansen were other standouts.

Zion-Benton then handed Antioch a 52-32 defeat. In the loss, Williams (10), Kalb (nine) and John Androus (four) led the squad in scoring.

Austin Grimm, Stein and James Androus also turned in solid performances.

Shifting gears, the Jr. Sequoit seventh-grade hoops team experienced a roller-coaster week.

In a 60-42 drubbing over Lake Forest, Antioch was paced by Sean Hetz with 19 points. David Cenedella and Tom Bennecke each netted eight while Chuckie Kempf added seven. Other Sequoits getting into the scoring act included Tim McGowan, Brett McKenzie and Jeremy Pohlman, all with four.

In a 49-30 victory over Wauconda, Kempf had a monster game, scoring 14 points and grabbing eight boards. Will Harrison and Bennecke backed him with eight points and five rebounds apiece. Hetz was also solid with six points, five boards and four steals.

Max Thain also chipped in four points.

Antioch slipped to Zion-Benton 57-52 as Harrison poured in 20 points, grabbed seven rebounds and collected five steals. Hertz also hit for double-digits, scoring 16, to accompany four steals and Craig Holst added 11 points and six steals.

Conant then got the best of Antioch, 53-41. Harrison scored 10 points to go along with eight boards and eight steals. Kempf chipped in 10, Bennecke six and McKenzie three. Hertz also hit for four points but did more defensively, collecting seven steals.

In a 52-34 win over Prairie Ridge, Cenedella poured in 16 points while Bennecke added eight and Harrison six points and nine rebounds. Kempf and Hertz netted six apiece while Pohlman added four and Josh Knaack two. Hertz also dished out seven assists.

The winning ways continued with a 36-31 victory over Glenbard North. Hertz had nine points and three steals and Holst six points. Knaack, Kempf and Bennecke chipped in with four points. McGowan, McKenzie and Pohlman added two apiece.

Lake Zurich bested Antioch 46-43 in the final game of the week. Harrison poured in 15 points, grabbed 11 boards and had five steals to lead the way. Kempf added eight points and Bennecke six points and five rebounds. Hertz also chipped in with five points while Cenedella added four and Thain two points and three steals.

Lake Forest Olympian critical after I-80 crash

By MARC JENKINS & JOHN PHELPS
Editors

Lake Forest resident Steven Lee, a member of the Taiwan bobsleigh team that competed in the Winter Olympics in Utah, suffered major injuries in a head-on collision on I-80 west of the Quad Cities in Iowa Tuesday, but is expected to survive.

Lee, 33, was a passenger in a 1997 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by a friend, Sam Hwang, 28, of LaPorte, Ind. According to Trooper Robert Turpin of the Iowa State Police, Dist. 12, at 8:10 a.m. Hwang lost control of his truck, which was eastbound on I-80, near Stockton, 30 miles west of the Quad Cities. The truck crossed the median and struck a Volvo semi-trailer truck heading west.

Lee is in critical condition at Genesis East Hospital's Intensive Care Unit in Davenport, Iowa.

Kathy Horrell, a spokesperson at Genesis, said that although Lee suffered major injuries, "He's expected to survive, but he will have a long road to recovery." Most of Lee's injuries were internal.

Lee, who has lived in the U.S. for 20 years, competed for his native Taiwan as a member of its four-man bobsleigh team. He is the senior vice-president of investments at First Union Security in Deerfield, and has been bobsledding since 1996.

The crash is under investigation, police said, with charges pending. Hwang and the driver of the semi suffered minor injuries and were treated and released. All three men were wearing seatbelts, according to police.

Hwang has set up a fund at First Midwest Bank in Lake Forest to help defray medical costs. Send donations to 241 E. Deerpath Road, Lake Forest, Ill., 60045 or call Linda Corcoran at 847-615-4510 for more information.

Plans for Squaw Creek Watershed move ahead

By JEFF ZACHARY
Staff Reporter

Watershed planning may not be everybody's cup of tea, but the Lake County (SMC) Stormwater Management Commissions Squaw Creek Watershed planning committee keeps drawing a fair amount of stakeholders to its monthly meetings.

At the first meeting, flooding was voted as the main concern by those in attendance, so it was a natural progression at the second encounter that the main topic addressed by the committee was flooding and flood mitigation in Lake County as it applies to the Squaw Creek plan.

Held at the Round Lake Village Hall, the discussion was led by Jason Obergfell, a watershed engineer with the Lake County SMC.

He said, "The types of flooding include overbank flooding, which is essentially streams, lakes, rivers or creeks, which overwhelm their banks and proceed on to other areas."

According to the engineer, another type of flooding is called depressional, which is a low area that has no outlet or drainage and collects water the way a bathtub does and causes flooding to structures.

A third type of flooding is called localized, which can be caused by storm drains that are insufficient to handle severe storms.

The fourth type of flooding that was discussed pertained to sewer or septic failure.

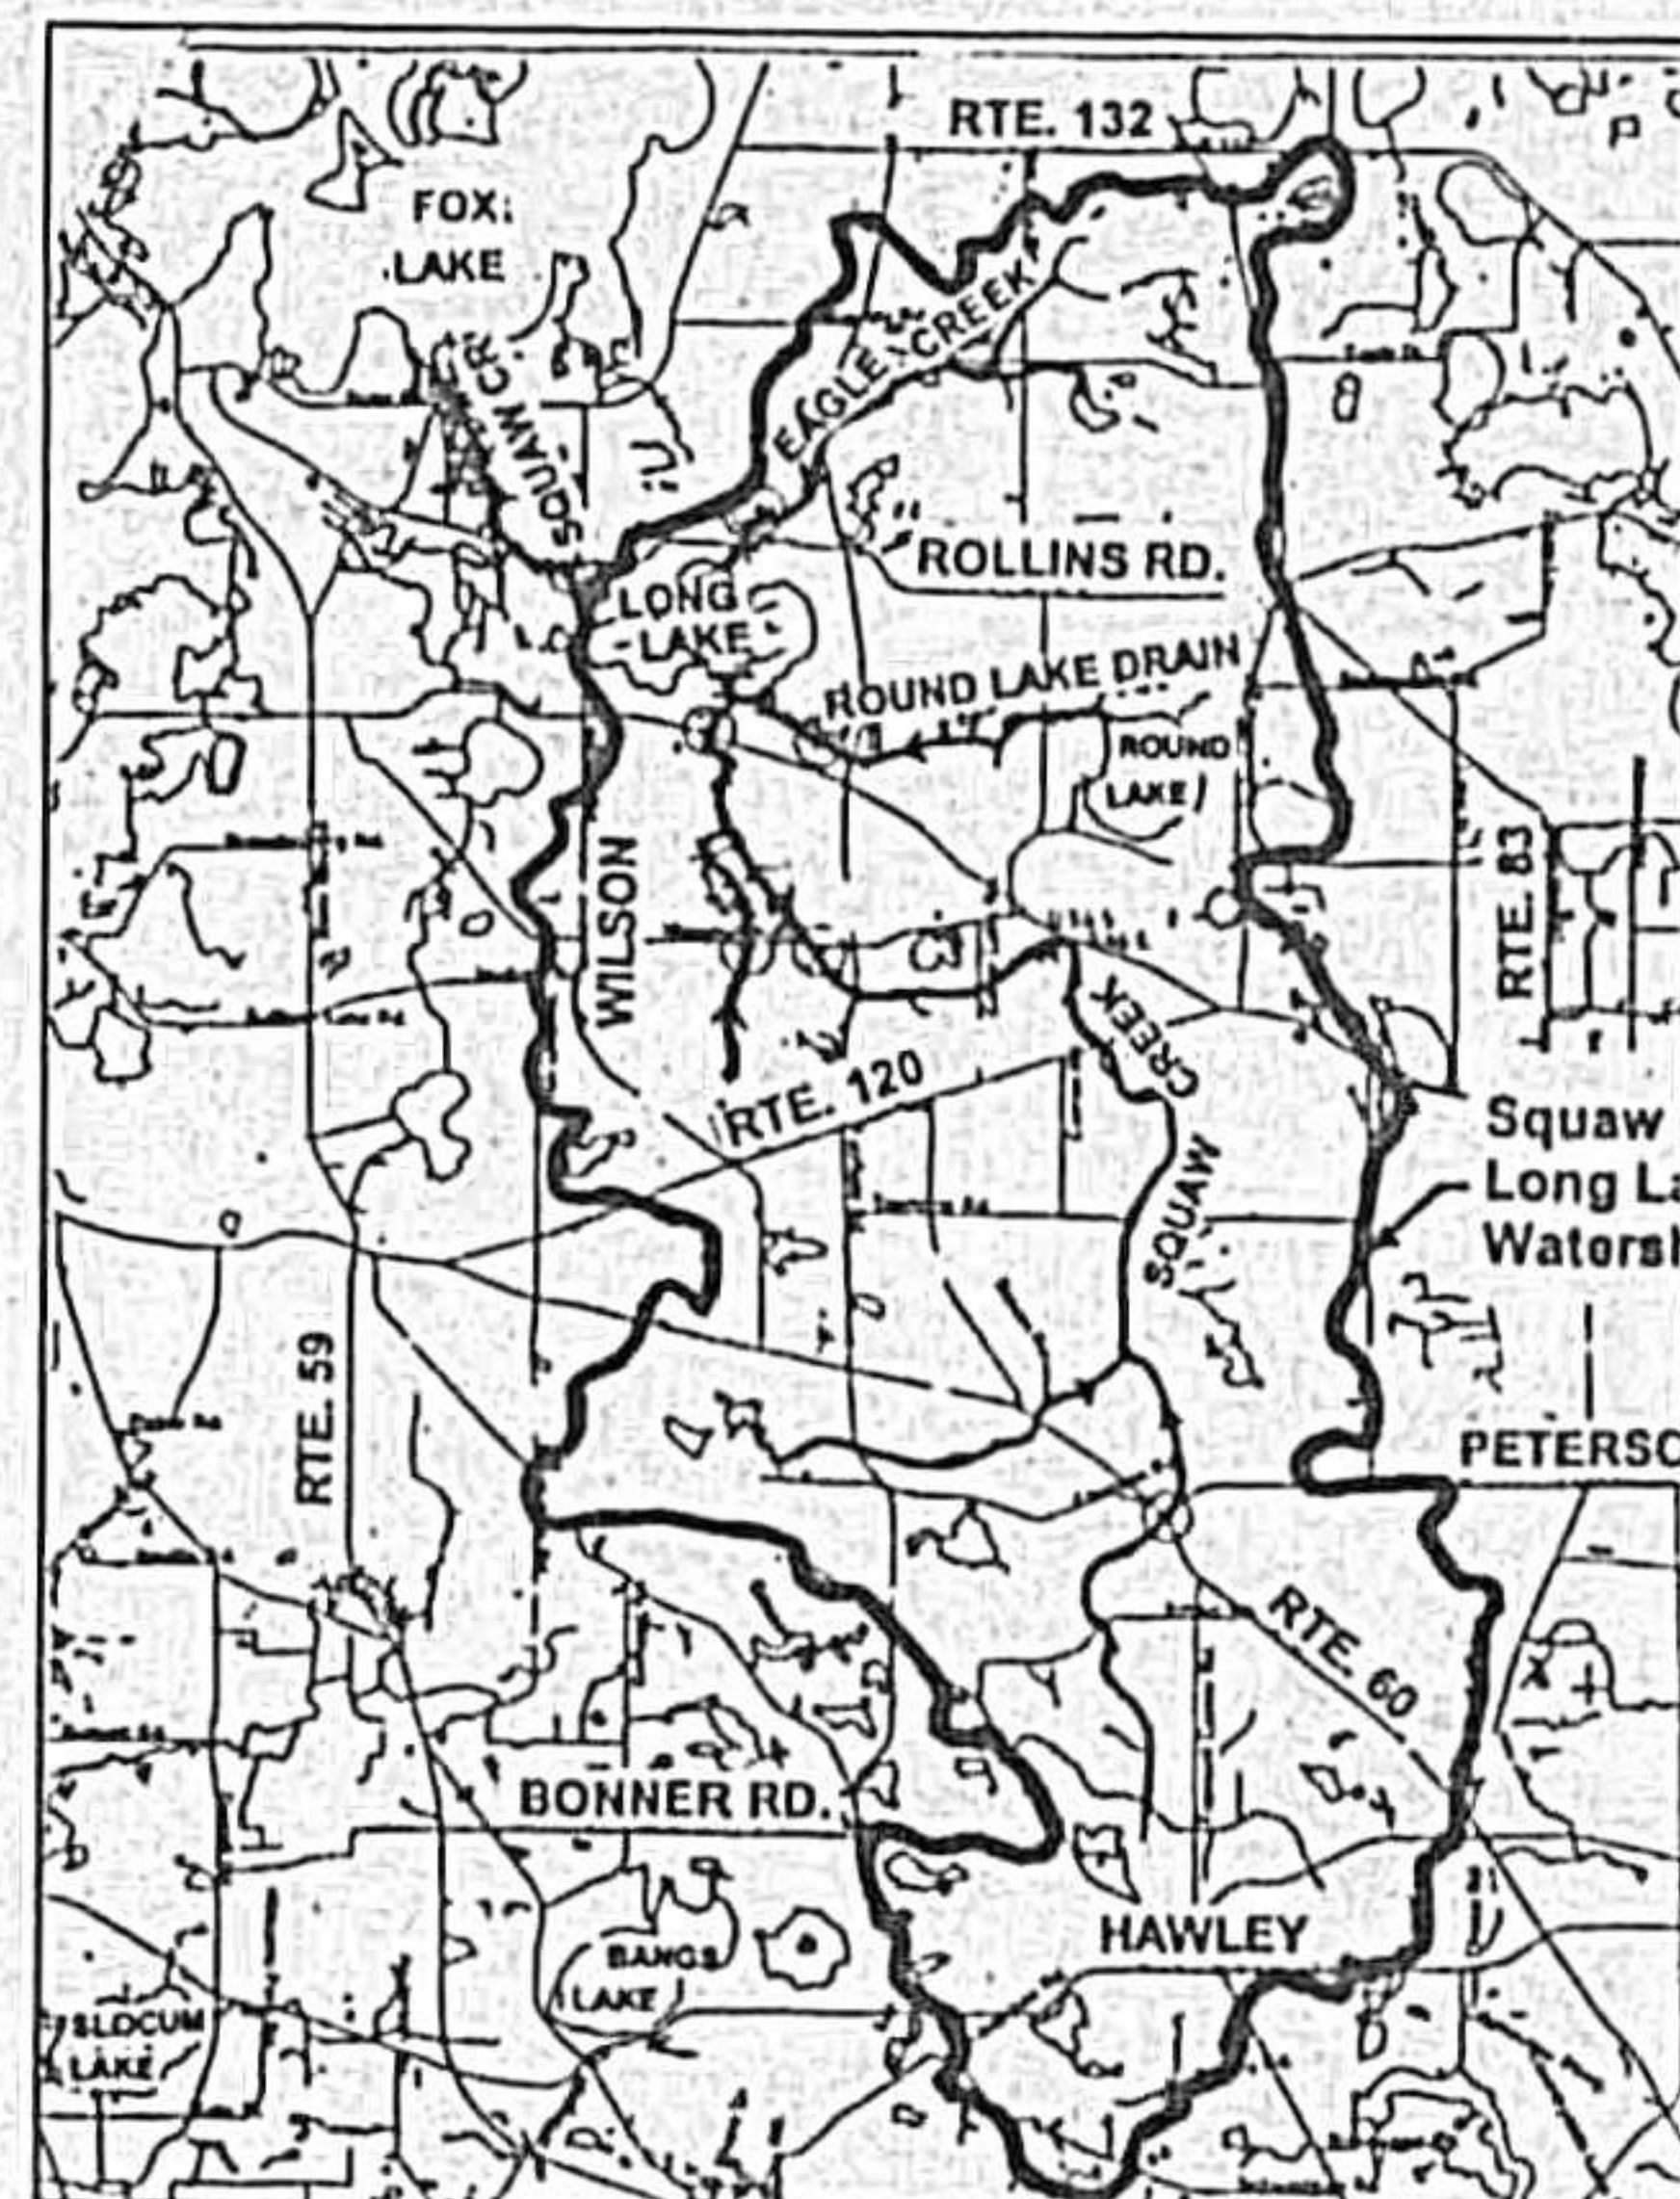

Some of the possible ways of combating flooding that the committee are considering include having modified detention release rates into area lakes; preserving existing floodplains; restoring natural floodplains; regulating development; restoring wetlands and requiring conservation development in all future construction.

Other goals include gathering all available data on what causes flooding; developing conceptual mitigation plans and forming partnerships with municipalities and townships to help control any future flooding problems in the Squaw Creek Watershed.

Another goal is buying property that is in flood plain areas.

According to Ward Miller, executive director of SMC, the county has received over $5 million dollars in the last five years from agencies like FEMA to buy flood property.

SMC is currently working on buying 58 homes that are in flood prone areas.

The next meeting of the Squaw Creek Watershed planning committee is scheduled for March 20, at a location to be announced.

Round Lake Village Administrator Chris Miller has offered to hold the meeting at the Round Lake Village Hall.

Also, Fremont Township Supervisor Pete Tekampe has offered the use of the Fremont Township Center.

The Public is invited to attend the meetings and offer opinions on the watershed. The committee has plans to meet monthly for an entire year.

Some issues still to be discussed include identifying critical open spaces; overall watershed clean-up; maintaining the baseflow of streams; educating the public about the watershed; long term monitoring and a possible moratorium on development.

The Squaw Creek Watershed is bounded roughly by Route 132 to the north, Hawley Road to the south, Route 83 on the east and Wilson Road to the west.

The 38.4 square mile watershed includes Hainesville, Long Lake, Round Lake and parts of Fremont Township.

Grever trial set for March 18

Robert Grever, a former Lake County Board chairman and a 20-year board member, pleaded not guilty to 12 counts filed against him by a Lake County Grand Jury.

He entered the plea on Feb. 22.

Circuit Judge Mary Schostok Schostok agreed to hear the case and set a jury trial to begin on March 18.

"The only decision was if the judge was going to take the case," Robert Will, Grever's attorney. "She decided that she could be fair. It is unusual that the jury selection and the trial will begin on the same date," said George Strickland, Lake County assistant states attorney.

Grever, 66, of 2155 N. Quentin Rd., was charged by a Lake County Grand Jury on Feb. 13 with official misconduct and failure to pay Ela Township owed fees.

Grever is charged with 12 counts of official misconduct. Prosecutors said Grever, when he was Ela Township supervisor, failed to notify the town board of a bill involving his mother-in-law, the late Mae Chvojaka, that was not paid, from 1991 to 1996 when she was at Winchester House.

"It is important that Mr. Grever did not gain any money. There is question of motive. Standards are different from civil court to criminal court. He was aware that the State's Attorney was investigating the case, but was surprised at the charges. But he, of all people, knows how the system works," Will said.

At last week's hearing before Judge Christopher Starck, a March 18 trial date was set.

A former Lake County Board chairman has been charged without following the rules regarding a family member's stay at Winchester House.

"He owned the township $194,000, with $200,00 including interest. It is four a five-year period, but his actions cover seven years. He failed to disclose a debit to the township, something that is required before every town meeting. He is charged with six counts of official misconduct," said George Strickland, chief of the criminal division of Lake County State's Attorney office.

Grever's mother-in-law was in the Libertyville based Winchester House for the five years. He is charged with failing to perform a mandatory duty; acting in excess of lawful authority for himself, his ex-wife Ruth Grever and his mother-in law, and for concealing debt, and failing to collect on the debt.

The state alleges that Ruth Grever spent monies that should be going to Winchester House payments on his former wife. "The estate has little or no money to pay the county," Strickland said.

Grever was arrested at his home on Feb. 20 by Lake County Sheriff's Department deputies and released on bond.

Grever, of Kildeer, served for 10 years on the Lake County Board, serving as chairman from 1996-98. He was township supervisor from 1981 until he lost his seat in 2001 to Kimberly Tinnerella.

Sierra endorsements

Sierra Club Woods & Wetlands Group this week endorsed candidates for the 2002 primary elections.

"Many races are decided in the primaries, so voting for environmental candidates on March 19 is essential," said Evan Craig, Sierra Club Group Chair.

"The current leadership of the County Board has an impressive record. But this is no time to rest," added Craig.

"The flood of new residents expected in Lake County will place unprecedented stress on our environment. We need bold leaders to guard our shared resources."

The Sierra Club's endorsements include only those candidates with opponents in the primary. Voters can anticipate additional endorsement announcements on the club's web site, including final endorsements for the fall elections, Craig said.

The Sierra Club's web site is: illinois.sierraclub.org/w&w/vote.

"Candidates have learned that voters care about conservation," noted Craig. "While they all say they will protect our environment, we only endorse those we can trust behind closed doors. Many of them face opponents eager to backtrack to serve polluters and special interests."

The municipalities surrounding Fremont township are devouring open space through annexations for developers. Voters there have an opportunity to protect open space while limiting expensive over-development.

"We've endorsed their campaign to create a new open space district and authorize $10 million in bonds," Craig stressed. "It takes both."

Craig said better state laws are needed to help municipalities and the county prevent sprawl.

Sierra Club has also awarded its first-ever gubernatorial endorsement to Rod Blagojevich, who has consistently been a strong supporter of clean air and water in the Congress and in the General Assembly.

Lake County Board: Judy Martini, Republican, Dist.1; Loretta McCarley, Republican, Dist.2; Larry Leafblad, Republican, Dist.6; Jose Zires, Democrat, Dist. 9; Sandy Cole, Republican, Dist. 11; and Ann Main, Republican, Dist. 21

Schostok write-in bid not needed after ruling

Circuit Judge Mark Schostok had vowed a write-in campaign to win a Republican nomination for the 19th Judicial Circuit if the objection of her opponent was upheld in Appellate Court — but it wasn't.

The Libertyville resident expressed confidence last month that the Appellate ruling would be in her favor. "I've got case law and the statutes on my side," said Schostok of the challenge raised by the wife of her opponent, Robert Morton of Antioch.

Through his wife, Nancy, Morton raised a legal objection to Schostok's nominating petition on the grounds that she used her title as part of her name in filing required biographical information.

But Schostok was reinstated on the ballot on Feb. 21 after a favorable ruling by the Fourth District Appellate Court, said Election Executive Kathy Needham of the Lake County Clerk's office.

A Sangamon County (Springfield) Circuit Court judge ruled that Schostok was using "unfair influence" in the election process. The lower court ruling put a cloud of question over ballot preparation in Lake and McHenry counties.

County Clerk Willard Helander said the legal maneuvering came after the final drawing of the ballot. Absentee ballots mailed in early February contained Schostok's name. "Whatever the outcome," Helander asserted, "we had no choice but to proceed."

Morton reportedly filed his candidacy with a single signature as opposed to the 500 required and submitted by Schostok. Under the statutes, the single signature petition is sufficient if no formal objection is filed.

The question of the legality of her candidacy has put a "tremendous strain on me personally and my family," asserted Schostok, who has served on the Circuit bench for the past year through appointment after serving as an associate judge for three years. Schostok served in the Lake County state's attorney's office for 10 years before becoming a judge, specializing in prosecuting white collar crime and supervising advocacy cases involving minors.

Food Bank holding Hunger Fair Sunday in Park City

BY SHANNON FRICILONE
Staff Reporter

Once upon a time a job was a means to a secure livelihood. But in the modern era, so many jobs pay so little that people simply can not earn enough money to survive on, no matter how hard they work or how well they budget.

That is where the Northern Illinois Food Bank steps in, an affiliate of America's Second Harvest, the food bank opened a Lake County Branch four months ago and has already distributed over 600 pounds of food to Lake County food pantries, soup kitchens and shelters this fiscal year.

The food bank will be holding its first annual Hunger Fair, Volunteer Open House on Saturday, March 2. Individuals, families and groups are all invited to stop by between 1-4 p.m. at the food bank's new branch facility, 473 Keller Drive in Park City.

On average, 12,000 individuals in Lake County are fed monthly through the efforts of Northern Illinois Food Bank and its agency partner network, but they can not do it alone.

"It will be the perfect opportunity to learn more about hunger and how your volunteerism can make a difference," said Susan Weber, associate director of the Lake County branch.

Volunteer opportunities at the food bank include office tasks, warehouse projects, delivery helpers, special event participants and a speakers bureau.

"People can tour the facility, gather material from individual displays and enjoy refreshments," said Weber. "A canned goods sculpture, built with hundreds of cans will also be on display."

For more information or directions call 847-336-FOOD.

If you cannot contribute volunteer hours, but would like to make a monetary donation, that would be used to provide food assistance to hungry neighbors in Lake County, send it to Northern Illinois Food Bank, 473 Keller Drive, Park City, 60085.

Victory and St. Therese hospitals changing hands, not operations

Vista Health has announced that Provena Health plans to withdraw from the joint operating company formed two years ago with Victory Health Services. The withdrawal, approved by Provena Health's Board of Directors, is subject to review by Catholic Church leaders and public regulatory bodies. Even if Provena Health does withdraw, Victory Memorial Hospital and Provena Saint Therese Medical Center will continue to operate without interruption.

"For Vista Health's outstanding independent physicians, employees and volunteers and the people for whom we care, nothing will change at Saint Therese, Victory Memorial or our outpatient centers in Gurnee and Lindenhurst," Timothy J. Harrington, chief executive officer for Vista Health said.

"Our commitment to Lake County is well over a hundred years old and will continue under the guidance of our local board. Although our organizational structure may change, we remain committed and enthusiastic about our opportunities."

"Vista Health's long-term strategic plans are of vital importance to the communities it serves," said William T. Foley, Provena Health's president and chief executive officer. "Those plans call for a significant financial investment. If Provena Health participated in that investment, we would be diverting needed funds from our other six hospitals. We do not want to jeopardize our mission in the other communities we serve."

Foley said board members and management felt it would benefit Vista Health the most if Provena Health withdrew rather than remained a partner but without the desire to help finance the long-term strategic plan. Provena Health is leaving Provena Saint Therese Medical Center with the joint operating company and will assist Vista Health with some of its immediate capital needs. Additionally, Provena Home Care will continue to provide home health services to the region.

"Our withdrawal is no reflection on Vista Health, its management team, the facilities or its philosophy of care," Foley said. "This was a difficult decision made necessary by the need to determine where to best deploy finite resources. We have every confidence in Vista Health's ability to continue to operate a high quality, comprehensive healthcare system for the residents of Waukegan and Lake County."

Last month the Vista Health board of directors reaffirmed the organization's intent to proceed with its previously announced plans to consolidate Victory Memorial Hospital and Saint Therese Medical Center in a single location. The strategic plan includes a $37 million renovation and expansion of the Saint Therese Medical Center and will take approximately three years to complete.

High school tech campus celebrates 25 years

BY SHANNON FRICILONE
Staff Reporter

This year the Lake County High Schools Technology Campus celebrated 25 years of excellence in school business partnerships with a recognition breakfast held last Monday.

"It went wonderfully," said Executive Director of the Technology Campus Dr. Linda Helton. "It was a really positive event. Technology plays a big role in the nation and we acknowledge that."

It all began on September 1, 1977 when 33 buses from nineteen participating high schools transported 1,230 students to the Lake County Area Vocational Center, now the Technology Campus, for the first day of classes.

Two years after its initial opening, the School was designated as the State of Illinois exemplary area vocational center.

Currently, the tech campus has over 300 business and industry partnerships that support the students, teachers and programs. The current enrollment is 1,450 students. The school has a capacity to hold over 3,000.

Participating high schools include

Libertyville, Mundelein, Round Lake, Vernon Hills, Wauconda, Warren, Alden-Hebron, Antioch, Deerfield, Grant, Grayslake, Highland Park, Johnsburg, Lake Forest, Lake Zurich, North Chicago, Richmond Burton, Stevenson, Zion Benton and Waukegan.

"We had two successful student alumni from the tech campus speak about their successes," said Helton. "We also spoke briefly about Governor George Ryan's proposed budget cuts, eliminating funding for vocational schools, and what impact it would have on us."

According to Helton, the challenge for a successful school-to-work system is to build meaningful alliances and encourage linkages between educational systems and business and industry.

The focus of their programs is on clearly stated core abilities; competencies and learning objectives formed collaboratively with their business partners.

In 1991, the National Center for Research in Vocational Education recognized the campus as one of the top 15 exemplary vocational education institutions in the country.

Country comforts: The many accents of a quiet classic

Create unique styles by blending domestic and European schools of thought

The limits of country style have been lifted. Today, country décor from rustic to elegant makes itself at home in cities and suburbs as well as in the country.

"The terra cotta shades and aged stone textures of Italy fit with the rugged California coast," says Tom Williams, senior partner, Hayes-Williams Interior Design, Carmel, Calif. "They give homes a sense of history and age and are more country manor than cottage."

At a townhouse in Boston's Beacon Hill, Gail Bertocchi of Gail Bertocchi Interiors, Wilton, Mass., combines French toile with clean American country plaids for a client who loves country fabrics yet wants a sophisticated look. In the master bedroom, this decorator upholstered the headboard in a toile and outlined it in red-and-white plaid piping to match the upholstery on a chair.

"There are two schools of country," says Pamela Maffei-Toolan, design director of the Waverly Lifestyle Group. "One is crisp and pure in color and design." Traditional damasks and stripes and checks in patriotic red, white and blue, based on designs in the Colonial Williamsburg archives, are characteristic. Waverly assembled a wonderful assortment of them for fabrics and wallpaper in its Williamsburg American Spirit collection.

The other country "is eclectic and transcends styles from Italy, France, Ireland, England and Sweden," Maffei-Toolan says. It encompasses toiles, the sketched pastoral scenes that originated in France and are used by Bertocchi in Boston, as well as the terra cottas that warm Williams' expansive California homes. La Dolce Vita from the Bella Tuscany collection is an example of a Waverly toile in subtle washes that captures a sweet moment for women and children at harvest time.

Maffei-Toolan ranks toiles among "the most versatile elements in a decorator's tool box," because they add the interest of a true pattern to any room without interfering with more robust designs. La Petite Ferme, with its farm animal scenes or the classic Toulon, both toiles from the Colors of Provence II collection, tell charming visual stories.

"Touches of country style bring relaxed comfort to even the most modern home," says Williams, who relies on textiles, "such as big checks that imply country" to soften contemporary edges.

A luxuriant softness epitomizes country looks from Ireland, in which large-scale roses and other designs are muted ever so slightly. In describing a paisley from the Waverly Echoes of Ireland collection, Maffei-Toolan recalls "the vintage shawl Maureen O'Hara wore dashing through the fields after John Wayne in 'The Quiet Man.'" Quiet, these designers agree, is a virtue of today's versatile — and universal — country style.

For more information, visit the Waverly web site, www.waverly.com or call (800) 423-5881 for a store near you.

Blend zest with the dining experience in this charming country style room. La Frutta wallpaper and fabric from the Waverly Bella Tuscany collection depicts voluptuous citrus fruits on a textural background. Add pine furniture to create an eclectic look that combines country Italian and American-inspired decorative accents.

Pace of growth overriding issue

For most of the 90s and now into the new millenium, the overriding issue of county government has been coping with growth. Without trying to oversimplify, the ongoing debate breaks down to two philosophies—allow the forces of the market and change to permit unfettered development or rein in the pace of growth through policy and regulation.

In recent Lake County Board elections, voters have supported, for the most part, candidates who understand the impact on taxpayers dollars to underwrite the cost of growth and development. Electors have put into the majority representatives who have been following a path that can best be called "controlled growth." Attendant to this philosophy is minimizing expansion of county government and holding down taxes.

We see this dialog continuing today. County Board candidates in the March 19 primary can be sorted out basically on their views on how to manage development and meet the demands of a growing population. In this edition, Lakeland Media offers comment and endorsements on contested County Board races:

District 1 (Antioch area): Two unknown Democrats, Timothy A. Chichester, Antioch, and Scott Wold, Lake Villa, are competing for a nomination without much campaigning. No endorsement. For the Republican nomination, incumbent Judy L. Martini of Antioch is being challenged by Kevin Schoudel. Martini supports policies that contain rampant growth. She has been responsive to voters, originally getting involved with public issues by opposing a casino riverboat on the Fox River. Martini also is a friend of conservation and the environment. Schoudel has some interesting ideas about fostering inter-governmental cooperation, but we see no need to turn away Martini's record and experience. Martini deserves to be nominated and retained.

District 2 (Wadsworth): For the Democratic nomination, Glenn Ryback of Gurnee gets the nod over Mark Stricklin, on the basis of his performance in local government. For the Republican nomination, incumbent Loretta McCarley of Beach Park is chosen over Randall E. Whitmore of Wadsworth for her performance in enhancing environment and open space issues besides her willingness to take stands on tough questions.

District 3 (Lake Villa/Lindenhurst): Incumbent Republican Suzi Schmidt is unopposed.

District 4 (Zion/Winthrop Harbor): Incumbent Republican Brent C. Paxton is unopposed.

District 5 (Wauconda, Fox Lake/Ingleside): Incumbent Republican Bonnie Thomson Carter is unopposed.

District 6 (Grayslake area): Incumbent Larry Leafblad (Highland Lake), a strong voice for controlled growth and open space, is facing a strenuous challenge for the Republican nomination from Don Bauer of Round Lake Park, who talks broadly about economic development. Bauer supports construction of Route 53. Leafblad is strongly endorsed for his leadership and understanding of the practical costs to the public of uncontained growth. He has served as chairman of the Building, Zoning and Planning Committee, which is responsible for implementing the Framework Plan, the approved guideline for land use and growth policy. Bauer's nomination and possible election in November likely would turn back the clock on advances made for controlled growth. Dennis Murphy of Third Lake is running unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

District 7 (Gurnee area): Marc Brogan of Gurnee is running unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Steve Carlson of Grandwood Park gets our endorsement for the Republican nomination because of his understanding of how county government interfaces with the public and his willingness to speak out against construction of Route 53, which he considers a diversionary concept that doesn't address ways to improve the existing highway system. Carlson has practical ways to enhance the existing highway system as a response to gridlock. His opponent is Denis M. Gravel of Gurnee, who has voiced approval of continued acquisition of public lands, a recognized approach to controlling growth, but thinks building Route 53 is a good way to improve transportation.

District 8 (Waukegan): Both Democrat incumbent Robert Sabonjian and Republican Shirley Friendlander are unopposed.

District 9 (Waukegan): In the Democratic primary, Jose L. Zires is preferred because of his independence and the opportunity he offers to present a fresh, new outlook for the district's Hispanic majority. The other Democrats, Tony Figueroa, an alderman, and Mary Ross Cunningham, offer traditional party line stances on public issues.

District 10 (Mundelein): Republican independent Diana O'Kelly is unopposed.

District 11 (Grayslake): Democrat Gayle J. Clnke is unopposed. In a Republican contest, Bryan Gutraj's youth and inexperience is clearly evident, although he can't be discounted for knowledge of issues and enthusiasm. Incumbent Sandy Cole has proved to be a steady, dependable leader, serious about maintaining the county's attractive lifestyle without courting high density urbanization. As Finance Committee chair, Cole has demonstrated the ability to utilize county funds with care. Cole is a champion of controlled growth. Cole is endorsed.

District 12 (Waukegan): Democrat incumbent Angelo D. Kyle is unopposed.

VIEWPOINT

Plan bums rush for county casino

Casino gambling in Illinois, like the hula-hoop, has seen its best days. Or so it seems.

Latest public opinion surveys are running 2-1 against a casino to be located near O'Hare Airport. Every candidate for governor in the March 19 primary is against allowing a Rosemont investor group to be bought out by a Las Vegas casino.

Now a Lake County-led movement is gaining momentum to have an advisory referendum put on the November ballot to ban casinos. Do the leaders sense an opportunity for a knock out blow?

People are wising up to the fact that only the high rollers win where casinos are operated. The social wreckage created by casino riverboats in Illinois is well documented. Voters know that the once promised big contributions to education from legalized gambling have amounted to a trickle. Funny how even the Illinois Gaming Board wants to rake off $6 million from the Rosemont deal to provide treatment for compulsive gamblers.

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

No, it's not funny. It's sickening.

Casino-Free Lake County is organizing for the advisory referendum with the impetus coming from church leaders in Lindenhurst, Waukegan and Gurnee.

Even though the vestiges of a Fox Lake based gambling boat still exist, Lake County hasn't been too kind to casino schemes, even though politicians pushed so-called "economic stimulus" and jobs creation like crazy. Riverboat promotions on the Fox River were run out of Barrington and Antioch. Most of the politicians in Waukegan and North Chicago who courted riverboat investors are out of office.

Remember these names: the Rev. Omar Logan of Waukegan and the Rev. Leona Tichenor of Lindenhurst. They'll be leading the way for a referendum on casinos. The proposition has an excellent chance of getting on the ballot. And if it does, the question will pass. Anyone have a hula-hoop they want to give away?

Valuable land

Lake County Forest Preserve District officials are getting offers of up to $106 per acre for rental of tillable land the county owns. Leases are arranged on a bid basis. Although only a handful of bidders are involved, custom farming still is a viable business in Lake County. A custom farmer can work 2,000 acres or more with no difficulty.

Name game

Most interesting political name for the March 19 primary based on a field trip survey from here to Springfield: Ed Sleezer running for state representative in the Yorkville area.

Paul Vallas... unique strengths

Since I am a Democrat, I have been often asked recently which candidate I support for governor of Illinois.

The Dems, like the Republicans, have three candidates in the March 19 primary election. Former comptroller Michael Bakalis dropped out, citing the lack of funds to wage a respectable campaign. That leaves former comptroller and attorney general Roland Burris, 5th District Congressman Rod Blagojevich, and former Chicago schools chief Paul Vallas.

All of the candidates are qualified to be governor, bringing different talents and experiences to the position. I know them all personally, so it is not easy to make a public preference.

Burris began his statewide public career as a member of Governor Dan Walker's cabinet, so he has had administrative experience. When he appeared before legislative committees, he was always forthright and cooperative toward our oversight responsibilities. Some who served in Gov. Walker's cabinet weren't as cooperative. Burris went on to serve with distinction in both of his elected statewide offices. He has lost some political momentum because he has lost in three elections since he served as attorney general.

Although I had left the legislature when Rod Blagojevich was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives, I met him when I worked for Pat Quinn, former state treasurer. He was respected as a hard-working legislator and most of his bills were consumer-oriented. Rod has a personality that gained a quick rapport with his colleagues, an asset in winning approval of one's legislative agenda. From all accounts, that has served him well after his advance to Congress.

Paul Vallas was a very young man when I met him and he served on our legislative staff in Springfield. He was what can be called a "numbers cruncher," or someone who toiled over fiscal matters. That can be the most boring and tedious of government responsibilities, but the most important. Vallas was known for his hard work and I believe that was what led to his promotion to become executive director of the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission. That agency forecasts the state's revenues and is so important in the state's budgetary process.

After Vallas's tenure in Springfield, he went on to become Mayor Richard M. Daley's head of the Chicago Public Schools. He has re-

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

GOP regulars pitted against independents

Influence of Republican regulars, as opposed to the GOP independents also known as "Greens," is becoming evident in competition for Lake County Board nominations in the March 19 primary.

Two prominent incumbents advocating controlled growth and land preservation found out where they stand in the party. Reps. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake) and Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake) were not invited to attend a candidates' forum Feb. 21 conducted by Warren Township Republicans.

Republican "regulars" were prominent at a fundraiser at Illinois Beach State Park for Randall E. Whitmore who is challenging incumbent GOP independent Rep. Loretta McCarley. Among the "regulars" were Bob Neal, a former County Board member; Shawn Depke, Betty Rae Kaiser and Zion Mayor Lane Harrison and Beach Park Mayor Milt Jensen.

McCarley, a health care professional, is relying on a grassroots campaign featuring door-to-door canvassing to turn back Whitmore, operator of a group of service stations. Whitmore is miffed at McCarley's stand to rein in expansion of Waukegan Municipal Airport located in District 2.

Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams is running as a GOP regular out to gain a County Board nomination in District 21, an elongated district running west of Shore Line communities south to the Lake-Cook line. Adams is pitted against Lincolnshire Trustee Ann B. Malne, who was encouraged to enter the race by retiring Rep. Martha Marks (R-Riverwoods), a member in good standing of the "independent GOP" club.

An issue in District 7 (Warren Township) is how Atty. Denis Gravel was recruited by interim State Rep. Suzanne Simpson (R-Wildwood) and Warren Township supervisor to oppose Stephen (Steve) Carlson, hand-picked by outgoing Rep. Al Westerman (R-Waukegan), a member of the independent GOP faction on the County Board.

Correction

Party Lines apologizes for getting two persons with the same last name mixed up in the contest for the Republican nomination for County Board representative in District 2 (parts of Waukegan, Zion and Wadsworth). Candidate Randall E. Whitmore is not involved with the sheriff's office in a controversy involving a towing business as was stated. The error is regretted.

Party split

The endorsement of Jose L. Zires by retiring County Board Rep. Peggy Shorts (D-Waukegan) is being viewed as a reflection of the split in Democratic ranks in Waukegan. Tony Figueroa, an alderman, has the blessings of regular Democrats for a nomination in the newly created District 9. Shorts has been at odds with regulars for a long time, especially since a new district was drawn without her input. Mary Ross Cunningham also is seeking the Democratic nomination in a race regarded as tight.

Newton honored

County Board Rep. Pamela O. Newton (R-Vernon Hills), who also is a commissioner of the Forest Preserve District, was awarded the "President's Citation" by the Illinois Assn. of Park Districts. Newton, who is running unopposed for a GOP nomination March 19, was recognized for commitment and leadership.

Question fees

Things are getting sticky in Fox Lake over questions about engineering fees submitted by an out-of-state engineering firm for construction of a proposed new police station. Funding must be approved by voters in a March 19 referendum for $3 million. Reports are circulating that invoices for fees in excess of $300,000 have been submitted.

Judge Johnson cited

Illinois Appellate Court Candidate Judge Barbara Gilleran Johnson of Barrington is the winner of a distinguished service award conferred by the Illinois Committee for Honest Government. She currently serves as acting chief judge in the 19th Judicial Circuit. Johnson also has been endorsed by the Italian American Political Coalition and the Mexican American Political Action Committee.

More attorneys?

The ranks of attorneys serving on the Lake County Board could swell in the March 19 primary beyond the current two. Practicing lawyers now serving include Rep. David Stolman (R-Grayslake) and Rep. Michael C. Talbott (R-Lake Zurich). Both Stolman and Talbott are unopposed in the primary. Seeking GOP nominations are attorneys Robert Rolek of Lake Bluff and Denis M. Gravel of Gurnee. Did Party Lines miss any?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Forthright Views

I write to commend you for the two editorials which appeared in your Feb. 15 issue. Frankly, never in such a Republican dominated political area, have I found such courage in endorsing Corinne Wood, who is truly forthright, honest in her convictions, explaining exactly where she stands, and who probably will never stand a chance because the "big powers to be" have already made their pick, just as in the past presidential election where the two "best" candidates (John McCain and Bill Bradley) never really had a chance.

Your choice of Paul Vallas is just as commendable, and classifying myself today as a Democrat (I was a Republican for over half of my "voting life"), I will vote for him in the primary—but, here too, "big money" will not let his candidacy win. In the end, it will be "politics as usual" and a turn-off for so many people who just don't vote because of it. I say this inasmuch as I work as a Lake County voter registrar and when reminding people to get out to register (and vote), I too, frequently hear, "what's the difference, the fix is in anyhow."

I also wish to commend your second editorial in connection with the Fremont Open Space District referendum. My husband and I worked tirelessly for the Libertyville Open Space District while we lived in Libertyville (33 years). Yes, there was abuse and friction on both sides between Mike Graham and Jack Martin and Jack's cohorts, but in the end voters supported the idea and because of it, less land was developed. Graham was always correct in saying that saving land costs less than paying for pavement, schools, and services. It's just unfortunate that more of the townships did not "jump on the bandwagon" long ago. I just hope that the new County Board will continue to purchase as much land as possible for Forest Preserves as it becomes available.

Look for 3-A's

A lot of consternation has evolved concerning the election to fill the Circuit post vacated by Judge Fred Geiger. As an acquaintance of this widely respected jurist and friend of our county, I feel compelled to work for the candidate with the best qualifications to fill that position.

A few years ago an area resident, social acquaintance, and member of our club indicated that he wanted to run for a circuit judge position. That is the right of any citizen. Our club circulated his petitions.

Now it is apparent we erred in judgment. The 3-A's we look for in a candidate are "Ability, Approachability and Affability."

Robert Morton has demonstrated, over time, shortcomings in these areas. During this same period my wife and I have come to know and admire Mary Schostok, a "straight-A" candidate by every standard. We will be supporting her.

It is time for the Appellate Court to speed up their action to allow Judge Schostok on the ballot. The fundamental basis of our constitution is the right of we, the voters, to decide elections.

Old faces are all in the family

This is spooky.
My Uncle John went to his eternal reward 30 years ago but I saw him the other day.

I looked in a mirror and there he was, staring right back at me.

This happens often, except the person in the mirror is either my dad or my brother George. As we age, many of us start resembling our forebears.

My dad, whose name was Jerry Sr., had nine brothers: John, Joe, Lawrence, Lou, Mike, Nick, Al, Tony and Pete. (Those are good old-fashioned names; born today they might be called Alexander, Zachary, Dylan, Logan, Dakota, etc.)

There also were three sisters in my dad's family: Kate, Marie and Ann. Yes, indeed, my Grandpa Kilian was a super sire. And with families that size, we had cousins by the dozens.

Uncle John was the only brother who didn't get married. He lived alone in a nice, roomy homestead built by Grandpa and Tony and Al, who were carpenters.

John was a nice man but some in the neighborhood probably thought he was a little eccentric, very quiet, maybe a bit of a hermit.

John never owned a car. He had an old, rickety bike that he would ride down busy Sheridan Road for a couple or three miles. Then he would be seen pedaling back home with a few pieces of wood balanced on the bike. For his fireplace, I suppose.

It has been said that by age 50 we have the face we deserve. Considering my saintly lifestyle, I probably deserve a better mug than the one I have, and maybe one with a halo.

I doubt we have much control over the way we wind up looking. Many siblings, as they get older, begin looking more and more like twins. I am the last of five brothers: Bob, Ralph, George, Earl and finally me.

Ralph told me that sometimes when he glances in a mirror, he says, "Oh my goodness, it's Bob."

My father died 25 years ago but I feel he is as much a part of me as ever. When I loaf in my easy chair, reading or watching TV, I sometimes hear myself laughing softly to myself and sounding exactly like Dad; and I find myself twitching my right shoulder slightly, just as he used to do.

I enjoy that, because it's kind of nice being a chip off that marvelous old block.

Brother Bob says, like our dad, he also starts twitching his shoulders sometimes. "Of course," he says to me, "you always twitched."

He's right; I started twitching as a nervous little kid, maybe because I was seeking approval from four big brothers.

There's a country-western song by Paul Overstreet:

"I'm seein' my father in me; I guess that's how it's meant to be.

"I notice I walk the way he walks; I notice I talk the way he talks."

So now am I also going to start looking and acting like my Uncle John? Let me check the garage; there must be a rickety old bike out there somewhere.

ceived recognition for turning around a crisis situation and the policies he initiated there have been copied in many other school systems. Again, he worked the "wee hours" and was particularly appreciated because he made so many personal visits to all of the schools. He received some attention when he turned down a substantial raise because he thought the one that he was receiving was a reasonable one.

Because of the state of our economy, the two issues in the race for governor that should be uppermost in the minds of voters are education and the state's budget. Everything that the state can or can't do hinges on the state's budget. I don't have to elaborate on how important education is to the quality of life for the people of Illinois.

Because these issues are so important, I believe that Paul Vallas would be the strongest candidate to become governor of Illinois.

Some say that Vallas has never run for public office before. Some of those who say it didn't seem to mind that former Gov. Jim Thompson became governor after never holding any elected position.

Some say that Vallas may not be able to handle the pressure of such a high office. To them, I say can you think of any more pressure-packed position than heading the Chicago school system?

Some say that Vallas, I guess because he's a Democrat, may be beholden to the "machine." To them, I say that they hadn't analyzed his performance as head of the schools, where his strengths came from working with the people, building bridges amongst diverse populations.

There are some intangibles I like about Vallas. His biggest asset may be holding to the strength of his convictions. We need that in a statewide leader. People don't appreciate the politicians who kow-tow to special interests rather than the public good.

Paul Vallas brings a vibrant energy to the state's highest office. Just as when he met parents and school kids every day of his job, he will make the rounds of every corner of the state as governor. He will hold "town meetings" all over. People will feel that he is "their governor" because he will be so communicative about the affairs of government.

In one of my recent columns, I wrote that during this questionable state of the economy, it is a most difficult time for anyone to be governor. It is in these difficult times that I believe that it is especially important that Illinois choose a leader who brings unique qualities to become a "leader of the times."

Given the opportunity to serve by the people of Illinois, Paul Vallas would be that unique leader, a dedicated, responsible, and responsive governor.

New, toll-free number for poison center

Illinois residents now need to learn and remember only one, toll-free phone number for poison emergencies and questions: 1-800-222-1222. Calling this national, toll-free hot line will connect you to local poison experts at any time, from anywhere in the country.

The Illinois Poison Center (IPC), which offers free, confidential poison prevention and treatment services to all Illinois residents, is partnering with the American Association of Poison Control Centers and poison centers across the country to introduce this new, national hot line to help people with poison prevention and treatment advice. The nationwide, toll-free poison center number, 1-800-222-1222, automatically connects callers with their designated local poison center, from anywhere in the U.S. All calls placed in Illinois will be routed to the IPC. The IPC will continue to be accessible through its previously published toll-free number, however, the IPC will stop promoting the former number and encourage use of the new number.

"Implementing a national number for poison centers helps to ensure that everyone has access to poison control services," said Michael Wahl, MD, administrative medical director for the IPC. "In a poisoning emergency, when every second counts, one quick call to the IPC at 1-800-222-1222 can save time and anxiety, and immediately give you the proper treatment advice."

In 2001, the IPC handled nearly 73,000 poisoning exposure cases. According to Wahl, nearly four out of five of these poisoning victims were treated safely and effectively with the IPC's help, without a time-consuming trip to a hospital emergency department or doctor's office.

To keep your family safe from poisons, Wahl recommends that you follow these basic poison prevention tips:

- Make sure all potential poisons are locked up and out of the reach of children.
- Keep medicines and household products in their original containers with original containers with original labels.
- Always read the directions before using medicines, cleansers and other products.

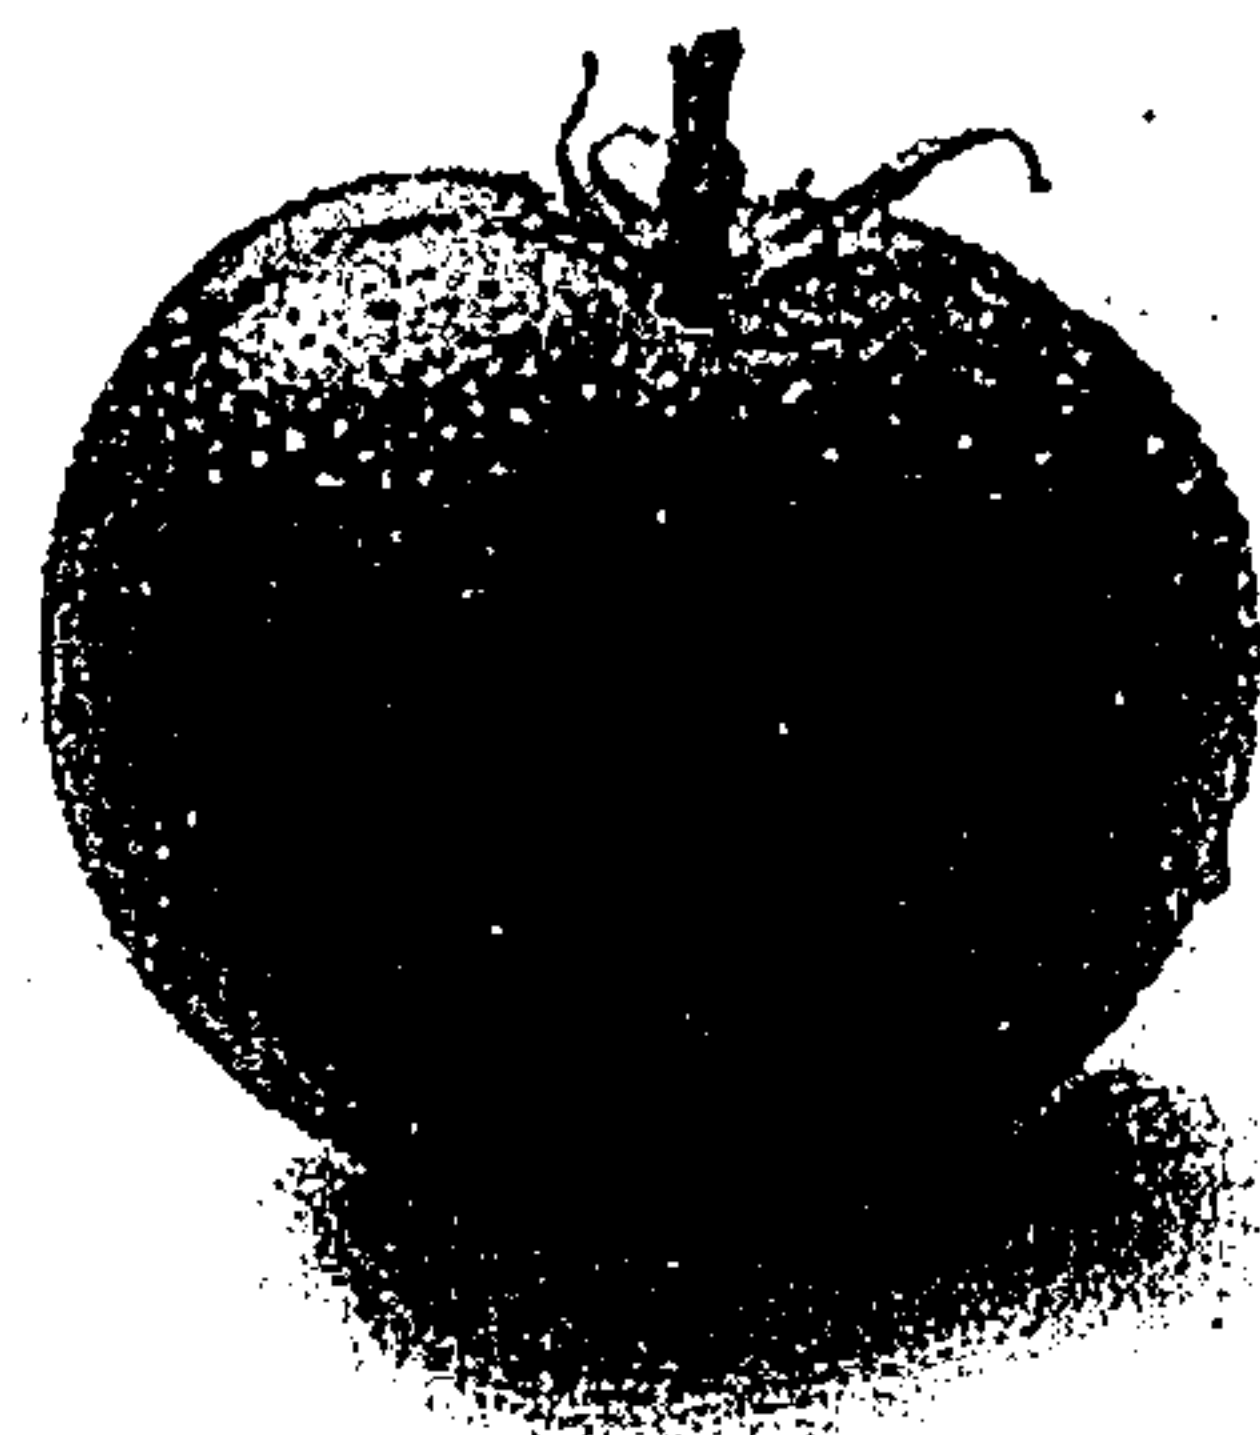

"If you suspect someone has been poisoned, don't wait for symptoms to appear, call the IPC at 1-800-222-1222 for free, professional advice," said Wahl.

For more information on how you can prevent poisonings and obtain free copies of the IPC's new educational materials —

The IPC is the only certified, regional poison center in the state, serving all of Illinois 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Staffed by pharmacists, physicians, nurses and other poison specialists, the IPC welcomes questions from the public and health care professionals on the treatment of overdoses, alcohol or drug misuse, medication problems, occupational exposures, bites and other poison-related concerns.

A tomato a day keeps the oncologist away.

That may not be entirely true but it is true that tomatoes, along with many other foods, have been proven to have cancer fighting properties.

In fact, studies have shown that just five servings of fruits and vegetables daily can prevent as much as 20 percent of all cancers. The cancer fighting benefits of proper nutrition apply to those who have been diagnosed and treated for cancer as well.

But keeping proper nutritional habits can be very complicated, especially when challenged with the rigors of traditional cancer treatment. If you add in complications from an unhealthy liver, renal system, or diabetes, the proper roadmap for nutrition gets even a little more gray.

Asthma: What should you use to get control?

Research program hopes to learn more

Asthmas and Allergy Center of Chicago, S.C. begins investigational asthma treatment study for adolescents and adults

It seems that as the more we learn about asthma the less we know about how to best treat asthma. If doctors should have learned anything over the past decade, there is more to asthma care than just dispensing prescriptions for asthma medications.

"The vending machine approach to treating asthma, simply dispensing prescription after prescription, is a model for failure in treating and controlling asthma" states Dr. Edward Lisberg, Director of the Asthma and Allergy Center of Chicago. "Unfortunately, asthma care too often fails because of failure in medical care: failure to use lung function tests to properly assess asthma severity, failure in understanding how best to deliver asthma medication into the lungs by inhalers, and failure of doctors knowing which medication is the better choice for controlling asthma."

As part of a multi-center, nationwide research project, Dr. Lisberg is Principal Investigator conducting a clinical asthma treatment research study that may ultimately help doctors determine which asthma medication to choose for their adolescent and adult patients with chronic asthma. Qualified participants will be asked to complete a total of 7 study visits beginning with a two-week run-in period while using their current inhaled corticosteroid, switching to open-label Advair DISKUS combination product for four weeks, followed by 16 weeks of double-blind treatment with either Advair DISKUS, Flovent DISKUS, serevent DISKUS or Singulair.

This clinical study will allow doctors and their patients to compare improvement in asthma control, satisfaction with treatment, and asthma-related healthcare.

Does sports before schoolwork give kids a sporting chance?

Dear Dr. Singer,

I am a private tutor and have been running into a phenomenon I'd like you to comment on. It seems that a lot of the kids that I tutor are also involved in sports activities. The sports have ranged from soccer to basketball to hockey to gymnastics to skating, etc. My concern is that it seems that to many of these parents, the sports come first and the learning comes second.

I have had tutoring sessions canceled last minute because of a game. I've had parents try to rearrange tutoring lessons to fit into the sports schedule. This happens in front of the child and I find myself wondering what messages are getting through to these kids. How can they feel that academics and learning are first priority and important if they see and hear their own parents placing the sports as more of a priority than the learning?

I have also seen parents do their kid's homework to finish it so that the child can play the sport. I get furious when I see this and of course, have to be tactful when presenting it to parents. I don't know how to get through to these people and wondered what your opinion would be on this?

Mrs. W.

Dear Mrs. W.,

This is somewhat of a tough quandary because on the one hand, definitely, academics and school performance is of the utmost importance, but many of the kids that I see that come in for my processing/attention program also seem to have naturally gravitated toward the sport because it is something they do well and can feel good about. If the academic area is a constant struggle (and if they are coming to you it probably is) and the child experiences nothing but pain from it, it is a natural thing for the child to want to do what that child is good at. Watching a child feel good is also a good thing in parents' minds and they don't want to take that one good thing away.

Now, with that said, I have to say that the one piece I don't see much of anymore is adults helping children to learn to stick with the tough stuff even when it hurts. I see a lot of going with the natural stuff that feels good. I often will have parents want to work my processing/attention program around sports events as well. Usually I ask them if they think their child will go pro in that sports area. If the answer is, "no," I ask them to then look at some of the very things you've brought up here. What message is the child getting from that? What message do they want the child to get?

Ultimately, which will get the child further in life, sports or school? Usually, I am not looking at two parents who are purposely trying to destroy their child's academic chances. On the contrary, I am staring into the faces of two people who want their child to feel happy and do well at something that the child holds dear. Two people who want the best for their child and think that this is the perfect way to get that. Most of the time, in my experience, gently explaining your position and talking about it leads to a logical way to work out the scheduling difficulty and the priorities.

PARENT'S PLACE

Another important thing to remember is this: many parents who have dealt with their child's learning problem, have been through many levels of help and testing and programs etc. Many times, they may not have had much success with the learning programs out there so far, and are not quite convinced that the "program of the week" will be any different in terms of success. It is up to you to not only let them know how your treatment will be successful for their child, in specific terms, but also to help them to see the future through that success vision.

It's important to help them learn to tackle the brick wall that has become in the way of their child's academic success. It's important to show them that they can take that wall down, brick by brick. Once they feel successful, priorities will most likely shift naturally.

Attacking parent's choices about their child's sports without any of the rest of this involved will most certainly put the parents on the defensive and make it so no one hears anything anyone else has to say.

Bottom line here is, if parents decide that sports need to be first, there isn't much you will be able to do to change that. You try your best and the rest is up to the parents. Personally, I feel and have seen that there is a way to balance both sports and academics. Good luck.

Don't put off child's first trip to the dentist

Finding a "dental home" for your child by age one should be a priority for parents who haven't given much thought about the first trip to the dentist.

The Chicago Dental Society (CDS) recommends that parents take their child to the dentist early — sometime between the eruption of the first tooth and the first birthday — for an examination and screening for any dental problems. On the initial visit, the parents will also receive instructions on how to provide good oral care for their toddler.

Why do children need to visit the dentist so early?

Many parents don't realize that caries and growth problems can start at an early age as a result of excessive bottle and breastfeeding.

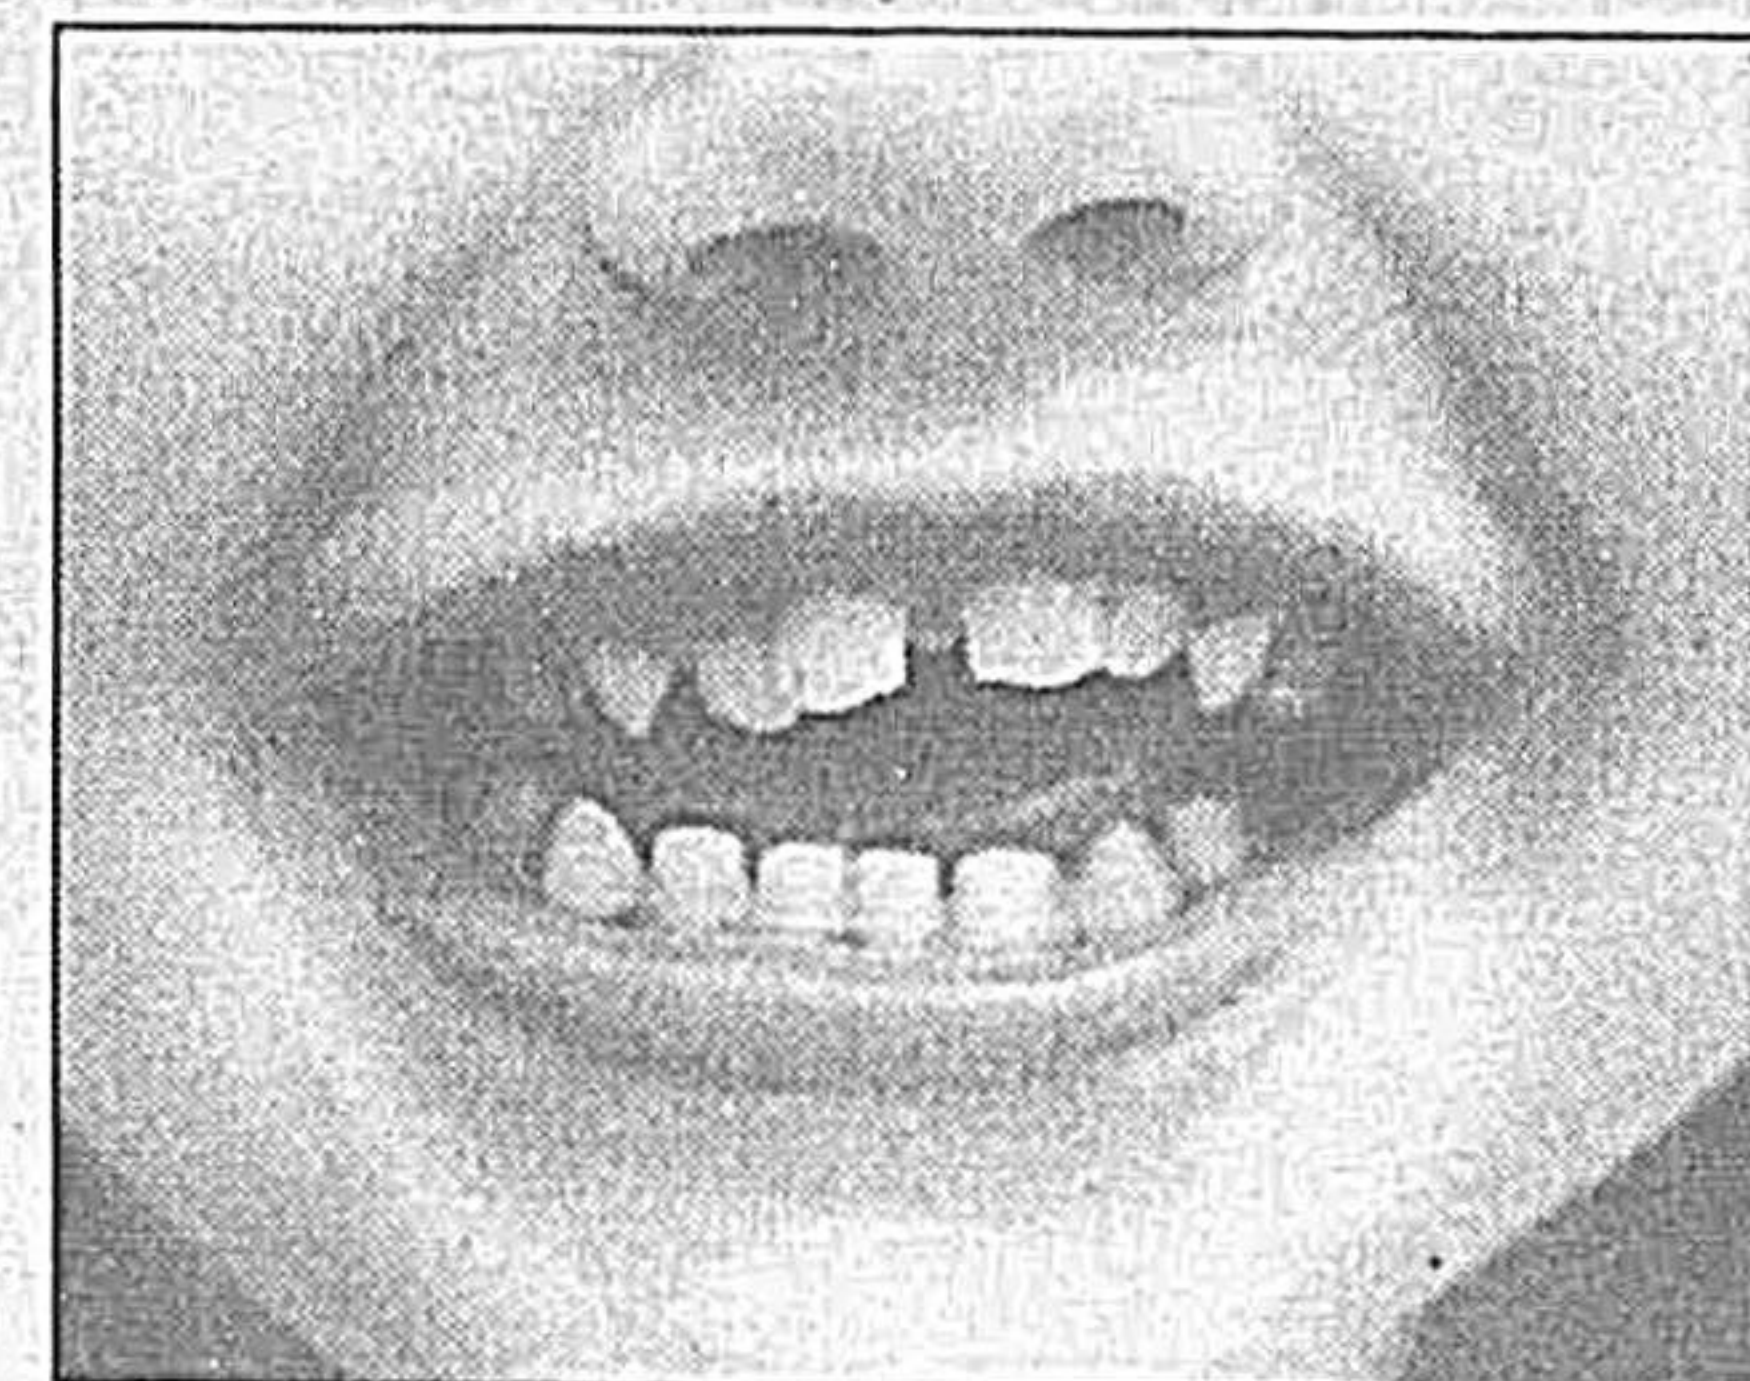

"Good dental care is linked to a child's overall health and it should begin at an early age," said Kirk Kollman, DMD, a pediatric dentist in Chicago. "The first dental visit is an important milestone for the toddler and parents. It helps the child to feel comfortable with going to the dentist's office and being around the dentist."

If parents promote good dental health habits at an early age, there's a greater chance that a child will develop a routine that leads to a lifetime of good oral hygiene. Children with healthy teeth chew foods easily, learn to speak clearly and smile with confidence.

Parents should plan for the first trip to the dentist so that it goes smoothly. They can begin by reading a book about a child's first visit to the dentist prior to the appointment, and talking about the special trip so that the child won't be scared.

The first visit is a get-acquainted session with the dentist and family. The dentist may let the child sit and ride in the chair alone and look at the dental equipment. The dentist will examine the mouth and teeth, and answer questions. Depending on the age of the child, the dentist may polish and count the teeth during the visit. Many dentists provide a small toy or sticker for the child at the end of the visit.

The Chicago Dental Society (CDS) and Dr. Kollman have some advice for parents:

The Chicago Dental Society recommends children should see a dentist sometime between a child's first tooth and first birthday.

- Select a time for your appointment when your child will be alert and rested — such as during the morning. Try not to schedule a visit during naptime, when a child may be tired and cranky.

- Read your child a story featuring a character that has a visit to the dentist. Your library or bookstore may have some available that will put your child at ease. If your child is older, another option is to go online to the CDS website, Just for Kids, to help prepare for the visit.

- Do not use any words that can scare your child. Don't say the visit "won't hurt" or "don't worry" because it raises the issue that it might. About 90 percent of first visits and dental check-ups are non-invasive and don't involve pain.

- Bring a list of questions about your child's dental health along and discuss them with the dentist during your visit.

- Allow the dentist to establish a rapport with your child to build a better relationship. Sometimes this is best accomplished on a one-on-one basis, without the parent in the room. Prior to the visit, check with your dentist to see what he or she prefers.

"We recommend that a child has regularly scheduled visits with the dentist every six months or sooner, if a problem develops," Dr. Kollman said.

'Age is Becoming' program offers women good advice

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center offers these tips to help women stay healthy during the peri-menopause and menopause stages of their lives.

"The keys to staying fit during peri-menopause and menopause are to consume a balanced diet, which is low in fat and high in calcium and participate in regular physical activity," said Toby Stern, R.D., L.D., a registered dietitian with the LCHD/CHC and a spokesperson for the Illinois Dietetic Association.

Peri-menopause is the phase leading up to menopause during which a woman's hormones begin to change. Some women may experience a variety of physical signs or none at all. Menopause officially begins when menstruation has ceased for 12 consecutive months.

There are two nutrition-related health concerns for women during the menopause phase of their lives. One is an increased risk of developing heart disease. According to the American Heart Association, coronary heart disease is the number one killer for American women. One in 10 American women, 45 to 64 years of age, as some form of heart disease. This increases to one in five women over the age of 65.

To lower your risk of heart disease, look at the controllable risk factors, the risk factors that you can do something about. The controllable risk factors are smoking, high cholesterol, high blood pressure and physical inactivity. The more risk factors that you have, the more likely you are to develop heart disease.

The other health-related concern is loss of bone tissue, which can weaken bones and cause osteoporosis. Osteoporosis affects 28 million Americans.

It may affect as many as one out of every two women after menopause. Some of the risk factors of osteoporosis include a small thin body frame; a family history of osteoporosis; a diet low in calcium and Vitamin D; inactive lifestyle; smoking and the completion of menopause.

Osteoporosis can be preventable by consuming enough calcium and participating in weight-bearing physical activity. Women between the ages of 19 and 50 need 1000 milligrams per day of calcium. Women over 51 need 1200 milligrams per day. (One cup of low-fat milk contains 300 milligrams of calcium). Weight-bearing activities build muscle and bone strength and help to prevent bone loss. Examples of weight-bearing activities include walking, stair climbing and dancing.

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center is offering a three-part education program titled "Age is Becoming." The program educates and empowers women about the changes that occur during and after menopause. This program uses an upbeat approach as it addresses concerns, offers problem-solving strategies and builds participants' energy and motivation to make the next 35 to 55 years of their lives even better than the first 35. To learn more about this program, contact Toby Stern at 847-360-6753.

Gurnee Judo Club scores big at regional

The Gurnee Judo Club continued its dominance by bringing home nine first-place medals at the regional judo tournament held in Milwaukee. In addition, Gurnee Judo earned five silver medals and two third-place efforts.

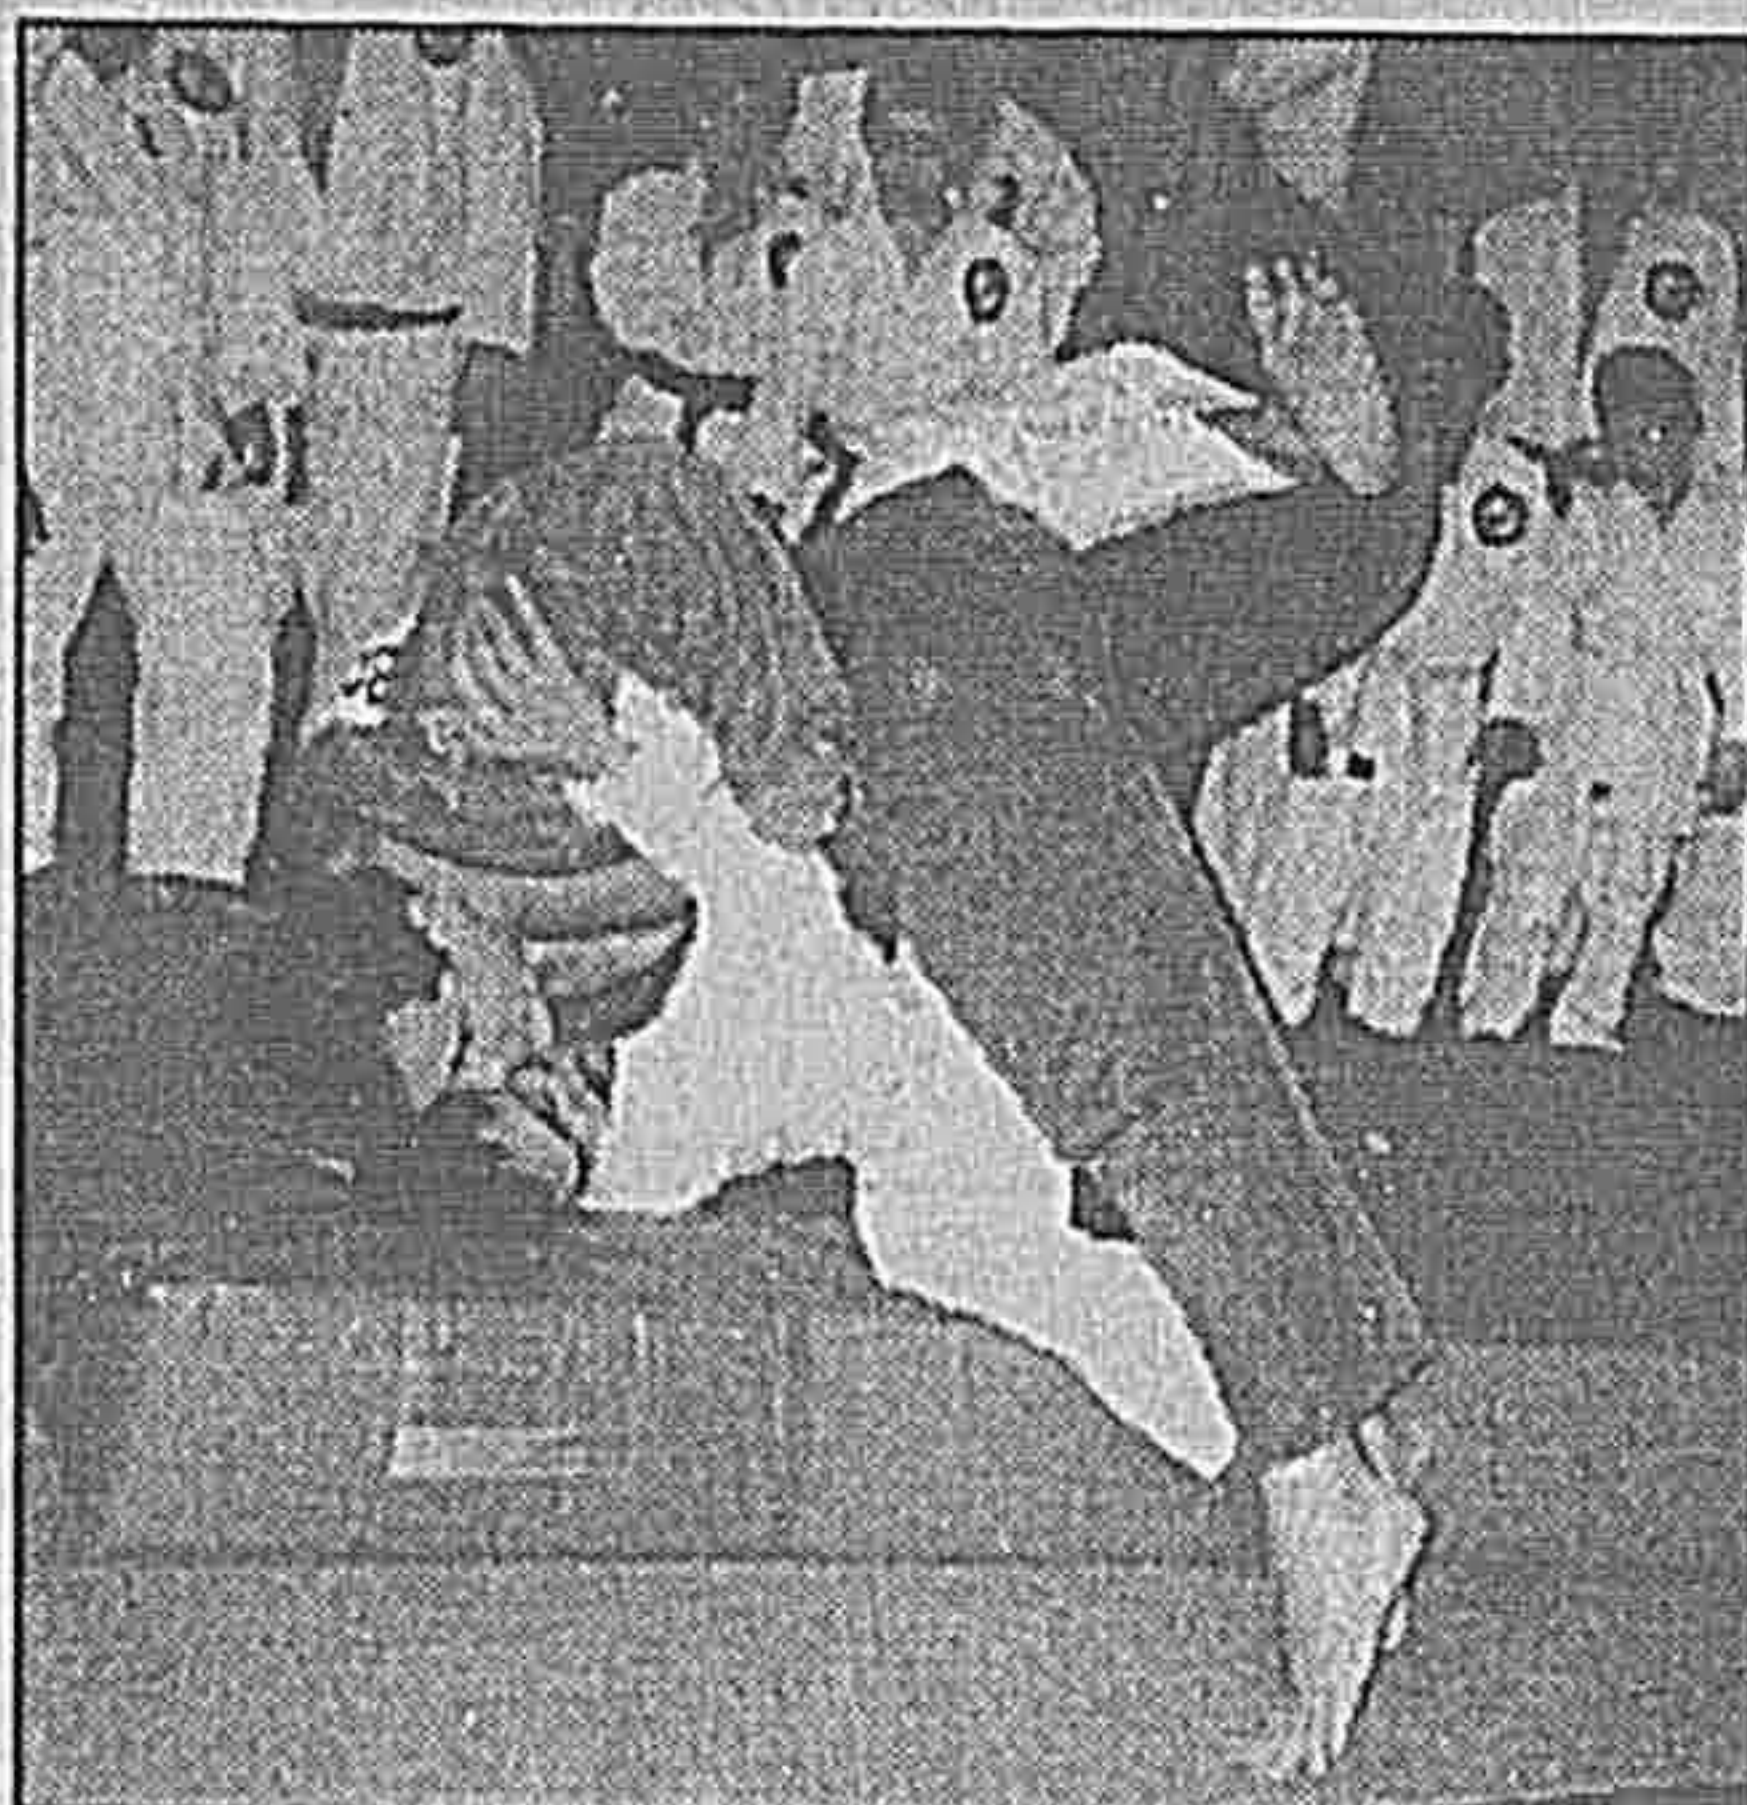

The event featured close to 200 competitors from seven different states.

First-place winners included: Michael "Mickey-B" Babowice, boy's middleweight eight- and-under; Adam Kozierowicz, boy's middleweight 10- and-under; Robby "Buh-Buh Ray" Schultheis, boy's heavyweight 10- and-under; Ashley Franklin, girl's 10 under heavyweight; Michael "Pepper" Delima, boy's 12- and-under light weight; Nicki Schultheis, girl's 14- and-under middleweight; Kevin "Tugboat" Deming, boy's 14-and-under middle-heavy weight; Pat "Bone Crusher" Bokor, boy's 16- and-under; and, Stephanie Parrello, girl's 16- and-under heavyweight.

Finishing second included: Igor Fedorva, boy's 12- and-under middleweight; "Uncle" Charlie Lahti, boy's 12- and-under heavy-weight; "Jesse" James Babowice, boy's 12-and-under middleweight; Shawn "Captain Insane-o" Deming, boy's 14- and-under heavyweight division; and, Chelsey Franklin in the girl's 16- and-under heavyweight division.

Earning third-place medals included the likes of 3rd Place: Chelsey Franklin in the women's novice heavyweight and Lee Kuebler in the men's black-belt middleweight division.

Gurnee's Nicki Schultheis, 13, finished big in her championship round after throwing her opponent with a spectacular one-handed shoulder throw. The big story, however, at the tournament was the debut of Lee Kuebler, also of Gurnee, in the highly competitive men's black belt division. Kuebler had just turned 17 the week before the tournament. Although he's only studied judo for three years, he competed against black belts ranging in age from 20-30, some of them having international judo competition experience. But Kuebler held his own, winning several of his matches with lightning-quick throwing attacks.

The Gurnee Judo Club is a program with the Gurnee Park and Recreation District. The club meets Mon. and Wed. from 6-8 p.m. and Fri. from 6:30-7:30 p.m. at the Kilbourne Grade Recreational Center, 940 N. Kilbourne, Gurnee. # Lancers hoops teams start playoffs on high note

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

The College of Lake County women's basketball team assured themselves a .500 record and a spot in the second-round of the playoffs after defeating Waubesa Valley 61-40 Feb. 26 in Grayslake.

The Lancers opened the game with a 13-0 run that spanned the first six minutes of the game. CLC expanded the lead throughout the first half leading to a 34-14 halftime lead. Stephanie Cripps led the Lancers in scoring with 11 in the first half. Chanel Jones also contributed in the scoring category with seven first-half points.

The second half went much of the same way for the CLC, who were well in control with a 53-23 cushion. The Chiefs of Waubesa Valley put together a final run, however, scoring 15 unanswered points against CLC's second unit. After brief adjustments to the lineup, CLC pulled away once more to a 61-40 victory.

Cripps finished with 19 points on the night while Jones added 11.

"There were times when we played very well, and times when we seemed to have lost some intensity," said CLC head coach Bill Braman.

The win assured CLC of a .500 season by improving their overall record to 16-15.

According to Braman, the team has been playing at the same higher level over the past six games. That same level of play would be greatly welcomed against the Lancer's next opponent, the number second-seeded Illinois Valley.

"If we can play our game then we can play with them," said Braman.

CLC lost to Illinois Valley earlier this season. According to Braman, win or lose against Illinois Valley, this season has turned out to be very successful, as well as character-building.

"I'm very pleased at the way we have progressed from the beginning of the season to where we are now," said Braman. "It has been a steady upward climb."

Of course traveling to Illinois Valley Mar. 2, Braman will have winning on his mind.

Men's basketball

The CLC men also extended their season Tuesday night by defeating Oakton Community College at home. Joe Maitland led the Lancers in scoring and rebounding with 21 points and 17 rebounds including going 8-for-10 from the free throw line.

"I was being triple teamed at times and I looked to get the ball to my teammates when that happened, and when I wasn't I think I did a good job of getting to the basket," said Maitland. "As a team, I think we recognized the zone very well."

CLC forward Marquis Barnes also contributed on the boards with 15 rebounds while blocking four shots.

The Lancers traveled to Morton College Feb. 27 for second-round action.

Personal use of Company Tools Is a Mistake

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Have you ever used the company photocopier to copy your income taxes before you send them to the government? I have. Have you ever used your office phone to make a personal call? I have. Have you ever used the computer on your desk to send e-mail to a friend? I have.

But, according to the American Management Association, more employers are monitoring how employees use these services. Here are some startling statistics from their April, 2001 survey of over 1600 large and medium sized firms:

- The number of companies that monitor what employees do on the Internet has doubled since 1997.
- 63% of those firms monitor which sites their employees visit.
- 47% review their employees e-mail.
- 43% track phone calls.
- 38% use video surveillance cameras.
- 31% have fired someone for misusing the phone, e-mail or the Internet.

Since these statistics are almost a year old, we can assume that the numbers are even higher now.

Yes, Big Brother is watching, but before you cry "unfair" let's look at the reasons that companies have been forced into this position. In the litigious society in which we live, companies are being sued everyday for treating employees wrongly. Although many of these suits are justified, the vast majority of these cases are frivolous, in my opinion. When a company fires an employee for stealing physical company property but allows another employee to steal computer time, photocopies, or telephone usage they are in jeopardy of a law suit.

Now I certainly understand that an occasional copy is not going to bankrupt a healthy company. But over time the misuse of these services will either put a burden on profits or the costs will be passed on to the customers. In addition, we can assume that you and I are not the only two who have misused these services. The real problem, as I see it, is that many employees don't perceive that the misuse of these services is stealing. Many of those who have participated in these acts would never think of taking a shovel home from a work site. Most people who work in a retail store would not think of taking home merchandise, and those who work at a bank know that it is wrong to take money home.

Yet, when it comes to intangibles there seems to be a misunderstanding that these services have a value that is paid for by the company. The fact that we can not always touch or see a service seems to change our value about it's value. Yet, the very reason that most people make the copies at work is the avoidance of the cost of going to the library or the local copy shop to use a copier. The reason most people use the company's computer rather buying a computer and subscribing to an Internet service at home is the cost.

Many of the companies in America perceive that the misuse of these services is stealing. Each day more of them are monitoring the use of these services. 31% of the companies have fired employees for misusing these services. Is it worth that risk?

How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

Q: How long is too long to wait? I was interviewing for a job with (name withheld). I interviewed initially and was called back for a second interview a week and a half later. After the second interview, I was told I was among 2 people in contention for the position and that I would shortly be notified about a third interview. I turned down another job offer for a little less money during this time, because my heart was really in getting the position with (name withheld). After not hearing from them in the next five days about the third interview, I contacted the person in Human Resources. Her response was, "Oh yes, I am supposed to schedule you for next week to meet with a third person. I agreed to the date and time, but the more I thought about it, this was a 3 and a half week process already, and I couldn't hold out for work much longer. My friends and family tried to encourage me to continue to interview for other positions during this time in case this fell through. I was stubborn believing I could get this job. The day before the interview I made sure I had everything under control especially research on the company so I would be prepared. The morning of the interview a call came in to me from the person in Human Resources pushing my interview time ahead 4 hours to later that afternoon. Much to my surprise I received a call an hour before the interview from Human Resources informing me they filled the position with the other candidate. I wasted almost a month on this company and now am back to square one. I'm angry and feel like a total fool since my family tried to warn me this could happen. What advice can you give to others to prevent this from happening to them? What steps should I personally take to put this behind me. Thank you. T.M. (via email)

A: It is a shame that you fell into that situation. It's more of a shame that the company felt so little regard to not even take the time to interview you after keeping you hanging that long. It's the old saying... "Don't put all your eggs in one basket." Don't dwell on this because it will only anger you more. These situations occur more often than you know. The trick is to continue to channel your efforts with the idea that you too will continue to interview just the same as the company is doing during that time. There are companies out there who when they are finally finished with all the interviews, extend an offer to someone who may have interviewed with them a few weeks before that they felt was the ideal candidate, only to find that person didn't wait around for them and has since moved on to another opportunity. Then the company realizes that they are back to square one themselves and need to start the process all over again. It can be a wasted effort in many cases. Obviously the company saw something very strong in you as a candidate to have kept you hanging on. It was possibly the idea that they were planning on extending the offer to the other candidate all along, and waiting to see if that person would accept the position. If they didn't, they knew they had another great candidate waiting in the wings. Use this as a learning experience. You'll come back stronger. Good luck.
